for 1924

VOLUME XI

*The Annual Publication of the Senior Class of Trinity College
Durham, North Carolina*

Prologue

The College Life, the play we now present,
Has run—will run—a never-ending round—
Each class in turn in separate act is spent,

Contributing to make the whole renowned;
Here Sophomores in second act are found,
And Seniors yonder in their final scene
Now bow mid cheers and pass behind the screen.
The whole is thus a drama in four acts,
In which the actor aids, or else detracts.
Conceive the theater our college great;
Let faculty direct the play and rate
Each actor in his proper place and part.
Esteem our repertoire, whate'er its fate;
Remember that an actor has a heart.

The Directors of the Company

In the drama of College Life, the professors take the part of directors of the company. They often assume the attitude that they are the whole show, just as the students assume that they themselves constitute the entire performance, but neither is correct. Even though the professors should be merely stage properties, a supposition that is not contradicted, nevertheless they are vital elements in the performance, which could no more go on without them than without scenery, furniture, or costumes. We include their names first, not because of their importance, but because they think themselves most important, and we are complacent enough to satisfy their vanity in this respect.

The Dean

Much has been said concerning the eccentricities of the famous Dean Mordecai, but much more could be said concerning other characteristics of the man which are seldom mentioned. From a superficial observation, one would never guess that Dr. Mordecai is not merely a remarkably learned man in the law and a teacher of the first magnitude, but that he is also one of the most cultured and widely read men in the faculty. The introductions to his books are literary productions of which many a professional writer might feel proud.

Second Year Law

GARLAND BOST DANIEL, ΣX ; $\Sigma X \Phi$
LITTLETON, NORTH CAROLINA

Judging from Garland's appearance and general characteristics, we should hazard the guess that he will never deign to enter the undignified practice of the courtroom lawyer.

JAMES S. DOCKERY
BILIMORE, NORTH CAROLINA

What can better impress a timid jury than a powerful speech delivered, not to, but at it, by a powerful voice from a powerful body? We have visions of twelve shivering men when Dockery stands before them.

EDWIN MAURICE GILL, $\Sigma X \Phi$
LAURINBURG, NORTH CAROLINA

Gill's waving hair (or what is left of it) grows out of a brain that thinks in terms of Phi. We hope that he is not contemplating winning cases by swaying the jury with musical selections.

WILLIAM GENTRY HALL, $\Sigma X \Phi$
RAVENSFORD, NORTH CAROLINA

"The gentleman from Swain has the floor," and Hall rises to his feet to address the assembly in terms of eloquence that cause every member of the legislature to rise in his seat and cheer the name of Hall.

HOWELL JOHN HATCHER, $\Sigma X \Phi$
MOUNT AIRY, NORTH CAROLINA

"I am the most important person in this play." If we had as much to brag about as "Doggie," we should proclaim our deeds from the housetops also.

OWEN REESE, T N E
GARYSBURG, NORTH CAROLINA

There is a great advantage in speaking when the lights are out. The audience cannot see one's knees shaking nor one's hands grip the stand for support. Owen makes a great appearance in the dark.

OSCAR LEONARD RICHARDSON
 $\Delta \Sigma \Phi$; $\Sigma X \Phi$; $\Phi B K$
MONROE, NORTH CAROLINA

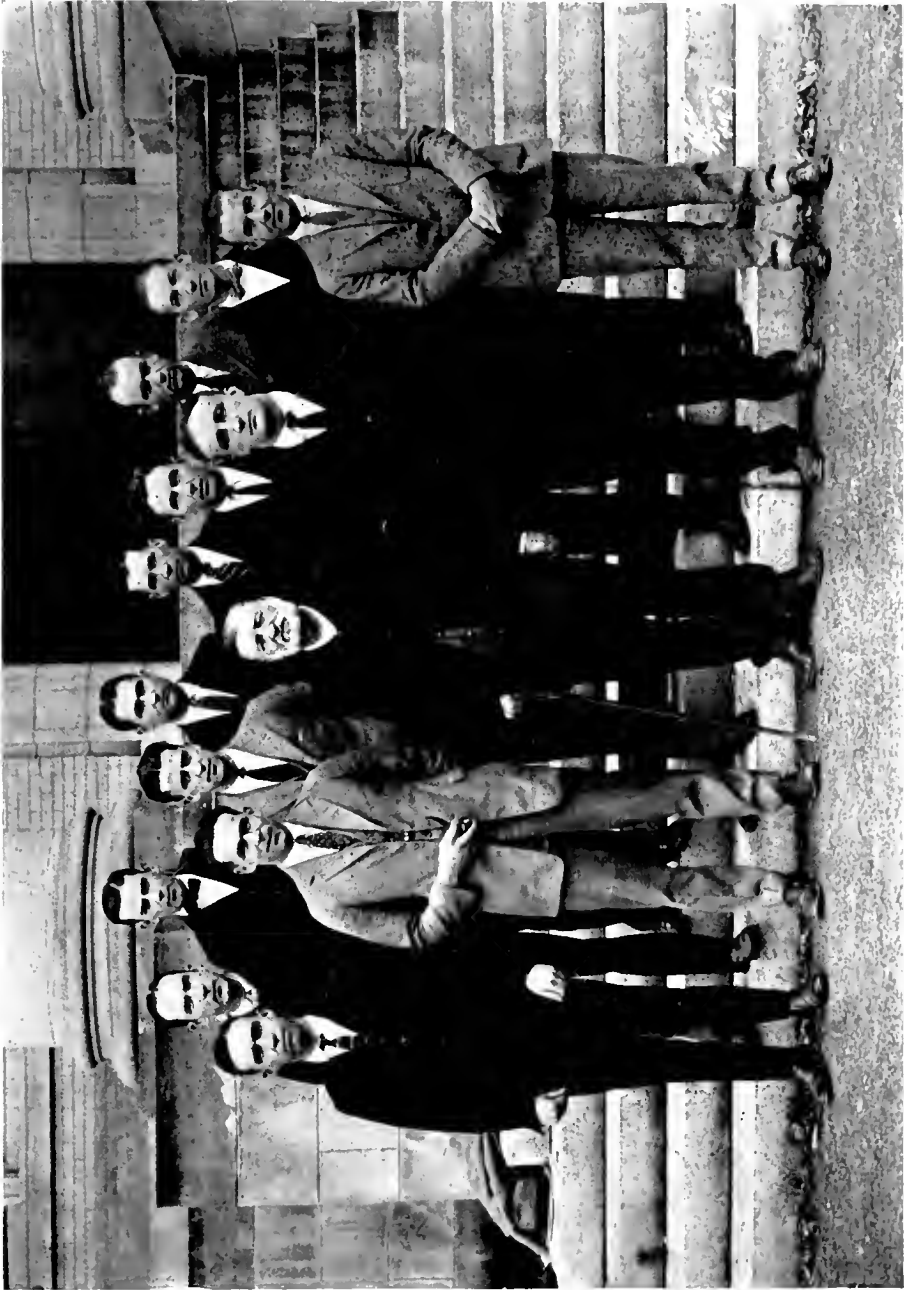

"One crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name." Oscar lived that one hour on the night of February 19, 1924, when Trinity met Carolina in a basketball game that furnished one single star, and that a Betelgeuse.

WILLIAM THOMPSON TOWE, K A
GARYSBURG, NORTH CAROLINA

"Bill" is a Trinity man of the old school. He was an undergraduate back in the days when the Tombs was a real organization, and when the place was not infested with skirts. If "Bill" were a drop, "Bill" would be the Pacific.

EDGAR SUMMERFIELD WHITAKER, $\Sigma X \Phi$
LAURINBURG, NORTH CAROLINA

In every bunch of good fellows there must be one who stands out as the Beau Brummel of the crowd, and who upholds the honor of the group in the field of gallantry. Whitaker is the man.

FIRST YEAR LAW

First Year Law

BANKS ARENDELL, A T Ω ; Σ N Φ Raleigh, North Carolina

From the news items that Banks sends out from the publicity bureau, one would think that Trinity were the best place found by man since his dismissal from the Garden of Eden.

CHARLES WARE BUNDY, Σ N Φ Monroe, North Carolina

Charlie is one of the men of old who did things around the school, but since becoming a student of law, he has put away such childish things as midnight feeds in Cat's Head.

WILLIAM SIDNEY CARVER, K A; Σ N Φ Rougemont, North Carolina

After flights of flashy baseball in the summer "Wilhe" puts away his mit to listen to the pious and delicate lectures of Dr. Mordcaai on the profundities of Blackstone.

JOSEPH WOOD ELLIS, A T Ω Salisbury, North Carolina

Very few of us realize how much easier it is to go to school than to work, but "Joe" is evidently fully aware of the advantages of a schoolboy's life. He will soon become one of the fixed assets of Trinity.

CHARLES STUART HAMMOND, A X A Rowland, North Carolina

"Rock" has lived the ideal schoolboy life (at least, to all external appearances), for he has always had a Hudson at his disposal, a luxury which is even beyond the dreams of the majority of the students.

CHARLES E. JORDAN, A.B., Σ N Φ Gastonia, North Carolina

The strange thing about Charlie's career in school has been that as soon as he lost the position of manager of the Glee Club, he stopped going out for the musical organization. He was evidently afraid he would not make a place.

ARTHUR WILLIAM MEWSHAW, Σ N Φ Relay, Maryland

If the gubernatorial primary does not decidedly favor the candidate from Lumberton, it will not be the fault of his most ardent supporter at Trinity, Mr. Arthur Mewshaw.

THOMAS GILL NEAL, A.B., Π K A; Σ N Φ Laurinburg, North Carolina

Many things have happened on the Trinity campus that were startling and unprecedented, but never has such a man as "Tom" Neal started wearing knickers before.

DENT TURNER, Σ Φ E; Σ N Φ Statesville, North Carolina

"Pete" is very grateful to the young men who show their amorous feelings toward young ladies by taking them out to dine whenever the opportunity permits.

VICTOR V. YOUNG, A.B., T K A Durham, North Carolina

Any man who will attempt to combine a law course with publishing a sport magazine has nerve enough to try anything, and we expect to hear of "Vic's" running for president as soon as he finishes his law course.

WILLOUGHBY FOSTER YOUNG, K Σ ; Σ N Φ Wilson, North Carolina

The glass palace of Kappa Sigma makes its appearance once a year, and all the Freshmen who are not treckle faced are taken for an airing.

JOHN REAGAN ABERNETHY
OF
MOORESVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has appeared in the drama of college life with his boots on (and his leggins, too, for that matter), for his work has kept him continually in the field. He is said to know the square root of every tree on the campus, and there is no foot on the park whose size he has not computed. Every computation known to the slide rule may be found in his notebook. John has not been so prominent in the field of gallantry, but rumor says that he would not be opposed to a choice companionship with some electable young lady.

ELIZABETH ALDRIDGE, K Δ
OF
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO did not need to depend upon her father's close connection with the company to get a leading part; her own quaint charm soon convinced her fellow actors that she was entitled to a stellar role. She has taken an active part in many activities, and all organizations with which she has been affiliated are to be congratulated, because her enthusiastic patronage is almost synonymous with their success.

JULIA WYCHE ALLEN

OF

NEW LONDON, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE favorite part of the stage is the Science Hall, where she has achieved well-deserved success. Her ambition to follow in the footsteps of her father, by becoming a medical specialist, bids fair to be realized within a very few years; for her work has always been of the highest type, which, achieved by persistent effort, can bring only happiness and success.

Louisburg College (1, 2); Brooks Literary Society; Natural History Club; Physics Club; Eka-L.

ORLIN FLOWE BARNHARDT
CONCORD, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO ran away with his part in the play like the fleet-footed deer pursued by the noble stag-hounds of the glens of Scotland. Since Barnhardt first graced the campus with his light and prancing toe, the cinders have showered in his wake, and another first place has been accredited to Trinity. There is only one question that we should like to ask O. F. and his fellow-lungsters of the fourth section of Jarvis, Turner and Waggoner, and that question is: "What in the world is Ho?"

BERTHA IMOGENE BARRETT
OF
NEW BERN, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE career has been long and diversified. It has contained many roles which have brought her much favorable publicity. And the sad part of it is that not one of them has enabled her to show the charming domesticity which is really her greatest asset! The director who utilizes her ability to play the part of a home-maker is to be envied because it is obvious that he will be greatly benefited.

DORA BELLE BLUE
HOFFMAN, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is a star who shines no less than the huge diamond that she wears. She, too, is one of the numberless actors who began her career with a smaller theater, but who joined the Trinity troupe where her individuality would receive more recognition. Her jovial disposition would lead one to believe that she is never true to her name, and we sincerely trust that such will be the case through the remainder of her existence.

EUGENE SIMPSON BOLICH, K. A.
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has displayed his dramatic ability both in the role of manager and producer. He has managed to produce a baseball trip, and produced to manage a very successful acquaintanceship (shall we say) with a fellow-student of very charming qualities. Depend upon Bolich (pronounced by Dr. Glasson to rhyme with rich) to pick out the prettiest girl every time.

NELLIE RUTH BROCK
OF
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

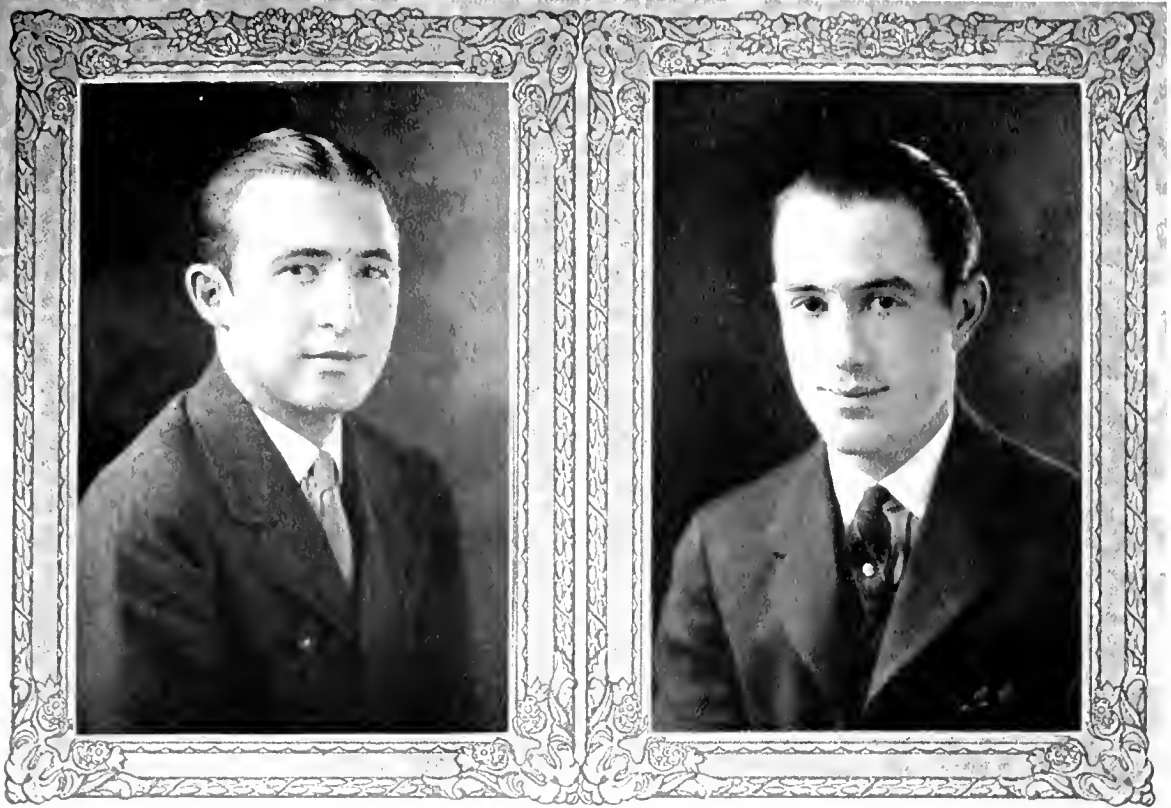

WHO never stays among her fellow-actors long enough for them to really know her. The fleeting glimpses which they get of her, however, are sufficient to prove that she is a truly good sport; the type of girl that is always wanted when good times are being planned. And in spite of her gay social life, she finds time to major in history!

Durham High School Club; Historical Society.

WILLIAM JUNIUS BULLOCK
BELLHAVEN, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO did not enter into the swim of activities until the third act, but who has fully atoned for his delayed entrance by putting his entire thought and action into the full repertoire of the company since the beginning of his Junior year. If there is any politicking to be done, always depend upon Bill's being in on the game somewhere; he never fails.

JACKSON HOWARD BUNN, A X A
ZEBULON, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is only in his proper element when arguing about some question of politics or current interest, about which he has a very smattering knowledge and very strong convictions. When he gets his fingers safely lodged in his vest pockets and his feet stamping the floor like a pawing horse he is right for business. It would be hard to find a member of the troupe more versed or widely read in public affairs of the day than J. Howard. Alphabetically speaking, at least, Bull and Bunn are very closely connected.

Hesperian Literary Society, Folklore Society, Y. M. C. A.

ROBERT STONE BURKE, A X A
SALISBURY, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE second name is very misleading, for Stone is not at all inclined to be hard. He becomes a bit firm in his language, however, when he discusses the reasons alleged by his beloved Dr. Boyd for giving him such a grade on the course Stone was so fortunate to have under the doctor. At least, an ostentatious pretense of scribbling on a note-book is a pretty safe way to spend the hour in a course under our corpulent and jovial "Fubby," and a safe wager may be laid that Stone has had a profitable experience.

WILLIAM HENRY CARSTARPHEN, ΣX
WILLIAMSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has every external qualification, looks, bearing, and manner, requisite for a hero in any play in which he might enter, and very easily could he have carried the lead at Trinity had he taken a more active part in the drama which has been our four-years' traffic of the stage for the past quadrennium. As a student and a friend, however, he could not have used his time more advantageously.

NORA CAMPBELL CHAFFIN,
 $X \Delta \Phi, \Phi B K$
LILLINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is a central figure in the drama; her slightest utterance often changes the course of the whole play. She is the guider of the destiny of Southgate; the president of the Women's Student Government Association. She plays her part most commendably; her highly developed sense of humor, however, makes one feel that if she did not have the dignity of Trinity women to uphold, she would be the perpetrator of many practical jokes.

ELVA CHRISTENBURY, $\Sigma \Delta \Phi$
OF

WHO has had the unusual distinction of being a director of the same company of which she is a member. She plays her double role quite efficiently. As a director of athletics she assumes great dignity, but as a student she throws it aside and joins whole-heartedly in the student activities. One who has seen her dance is convinced that her proper role is that of devotee to the Terpsichorean art.

LOIS COLLINS

OF

EAST DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE only fault has been that she has most inconsiderately deprived us of the pleasure of her company when she was not forced to be among us in the pursuit of her scholastic duties, or lured to us by the singular attraction of one of our number. We have most to thank one certain gentleman of our acquaintance for enabling us to see something more of Lois during her last year than had been possible previously, and had we not been fortunate enough to have among our number one who had the power to attract her attention, we fear that that most glorious of all days of the year, commencement, would have found us still ignorant of the charm and wonderful personality embodied in the form which bears the name of Collins.

MARIE LOVE COUCH, Φ β κ

OF

DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is one of the best known actors of the troupe, having attracted wide attention at the beginning of her stage career. Her extensive knowledge of things which her fellow-actors have barely heard of has brought to her grades which were generally conceded to be non-existent. She is not unapproachable, however, but always has something to say to everybody she meets.

KATHERINE DOROTHY COX
SALISBURY, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE during her career, has played two roles which are as diametrically opposed as two parts can very well be. One moment she is the efficient Doctor Cox, whose specialty is the curing of sore throats; the next she appears as a most charming little toe dancer, who wins over even the most blasé audience. As a doctor, however, she is not perfect; she may cure throats, but she invariably breaks hearts.

MIRIAM BERNICE COX
SANDFORD, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE loyalty to the Trinity Theater is a good exemplification of what true college spirit really is. She attends the intercollegiate games with almost as much regularity as the contestants themselves; she knows that the game is never lost until the final play has been made. It would be better for the theatrical world if more actors possessed her untailing high spirit and superabundance of energy.

ROBERT ARTHUR CRABTREE, Φ B K
OF
EAST DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

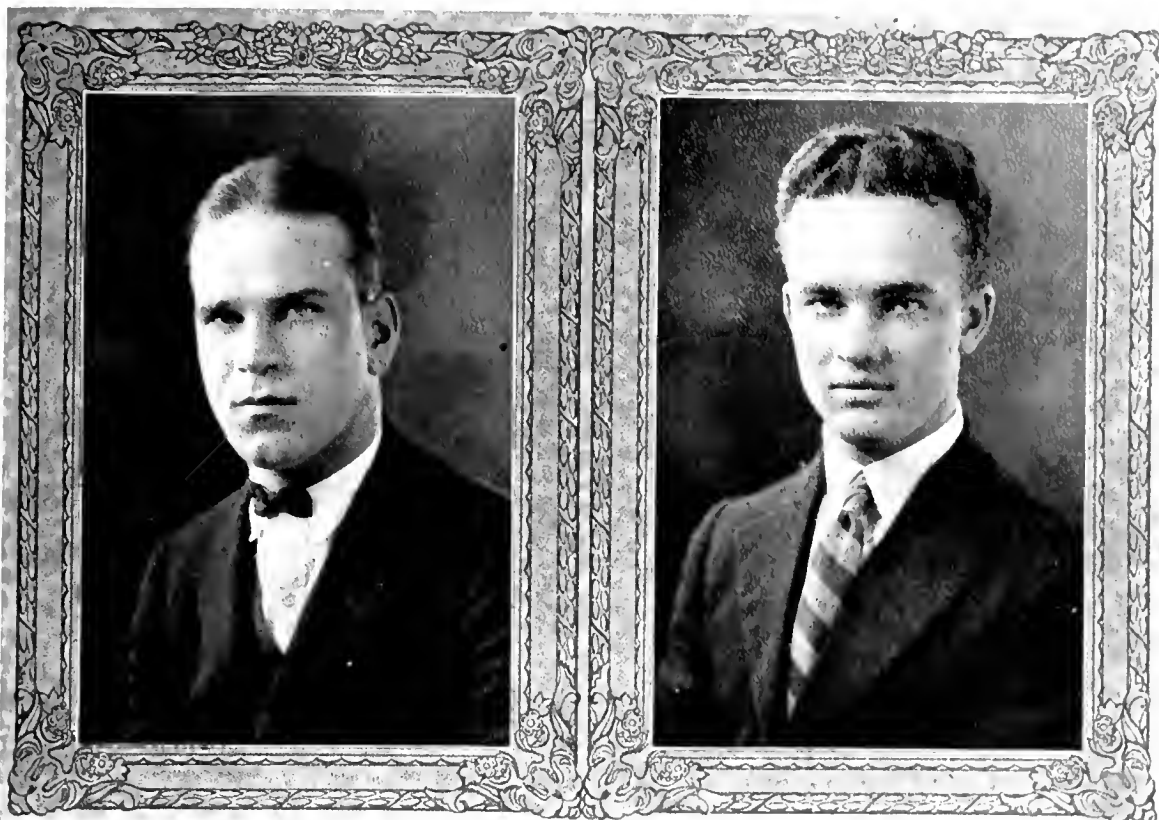

WHO will be able to recount to his children the same line that all of us have heard from our fathers and mothers so often when we seem unappreciative of the advantages they afford us: "When I was going to school, I had to go over two miles to the schoolhouse every day, through snow, rain, sleet, and wind"—Crabtree lives in East Durham. He is one of the exponents of the view that boys should go to college to learn their lessons and to leave other things alone. Crabtree is an excellent student.

Freshman-Sophomore Honors; Class Basketball (1, 2); 1913.

ALICE HOLMAN CRAVEN
RIDGECREST, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is a veritable child of the Trinity Theater, as all of her family have been actively connected with it in various capacities, from that of a mere actor to president of the company. She began her work in a smaller theater, but realizing where greater opportunities to show her proficiency in mathematics were to be found, she deserted it for the theater which her ancestors have helped to make famous.

Davenport College (1, 2); Athena Literary Society, Critic (3).

HENRY ARCHER CRUTE, H. K. A.
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is one of the most versatile athletes who ever graced the blue and white of Trinity. As captain-elect of the 1925 football team, he has been vested with an exceedingly responsible but coveted honor, yet one which he is well capable of handling. Fritz is the handsome man of the class, and all the ladies go wild over his high forehead and deep-set eyes. He is as indifferent to their wiles, however, as he is to the grades he receives on his courses, and in the latter respect his attitude is of such an extreme nature that it has sometimes been difficult to get him to write even a psychology paper.

Varsity Football (1, 2, 3); Varsity Basketball (1, 2, 3); Varsity Track (2); Glee Club (2); Trinity Park School Club; Tombs.

ARCHIE SHIELDS DANIELS
OF

WHO thought his performance would be upon the guitar until he accidentally discovered that he could grapple with a man more successfully than a glass used for a guitar slide. When Archie discovered that his talents as a performer on the stringed instrument was not appreciated sufficiently, he very wisely, and, may we say, fortunately for Trinity, decided to turn his attention to the mat. Indeed, well has he performed for Coach Bailey, and not even his fleetest opponent from Carolina was able to run away from him.

VIOLETTA MARIE DAVIS, Z T A
ALBEMARLE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE part in the play is that of "personifying perpetual motion." She is a tireless actor. With a shrug of the shoulder, an uplifting of the chin, or a fling of the hand, she flashes off and on the scene of action with an inconsistency which is in keeping with the rest of her unfathomable nature. One wonders how she can hold a book still long enough to gain all the knowledge which she possesses.

Athens Literary Society; Dramatic Club; Chairman of Costume Committee (31), Pan-Hellenic Council (4), President (4).

AGNES DOUB, K Δ
OF
WENDELL, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO began her career with the predecessor of the present company, but realizing what opportunities were waiting for her as a member of the later aggregation, deserted it as soon as possible. She is capable, and her fellow-actors have utilized this quality, too, in that she has successively been delegated to assist in the management of the company's funds. She is not only an able financier, however, but a jolly companion.

Brooks Literary Society; Parthenon Club.

WILLIAM SAMPSON DURHAM, JR.

SILER CITY, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO spends all his time either riding or running. The greatest offense of which "Bill" has been guilty since he came to Trinity was his taking advantage of the absolute ignorance and innocence of the last editor of the CHANTICLEER by trading off on him one of his old, worn-out motorcycles. Such people are to be cared for, not swindled, and "Bill" should be severely repentant for his actions.

ESTHER EADS

JONESVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is an actor characterized by the most unusual combination of demureness and vivacity. She is very petite, too; in fact, she resembles a big French doll more than an actor who says she is planning to make the mission field her stage. We should not be surprised, however, if a director in this country does not succeed in persuading her that charity begins at home.

Davenport College (1, 2), Davenport Club, Hades Club.

LACY THOMAS EDENS
ROWLAND, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has been as the powerful silence of a mountain lake, immeasurably deep, but mirroring from its motionless surface the lofty peaks of the mountaintops, castles of the impalpable God reflected in him. Edens has the unique distinction of having told less falsehoods than any man in the company, but for this matter, he has told less truths than any of the others also, for he has told very little of anything since he has been with us. His complete reticence has caused him to remain unknown to a great many of the actors, but we have an idea that down underneath that external nature there lives a man burning with the aspirations of enormous achievements.

MARY KING ELLISON, A Δ H
BELHAVEN, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE most characteristic line in the play is simply the announcement that "the Glee Club will meet this afternoon at four o'clock. Everybody please be present." She is a general favorite with the whole cast, because a more affable person never joined the troupe; and long after her favorite lines have been forgotten, the memory of her unfailing good humor and friendliness will remain.

GEORGE CLIFTON ERVIN, Φ Β Κ
RUTHERFORDION, NORTH CAROLINA

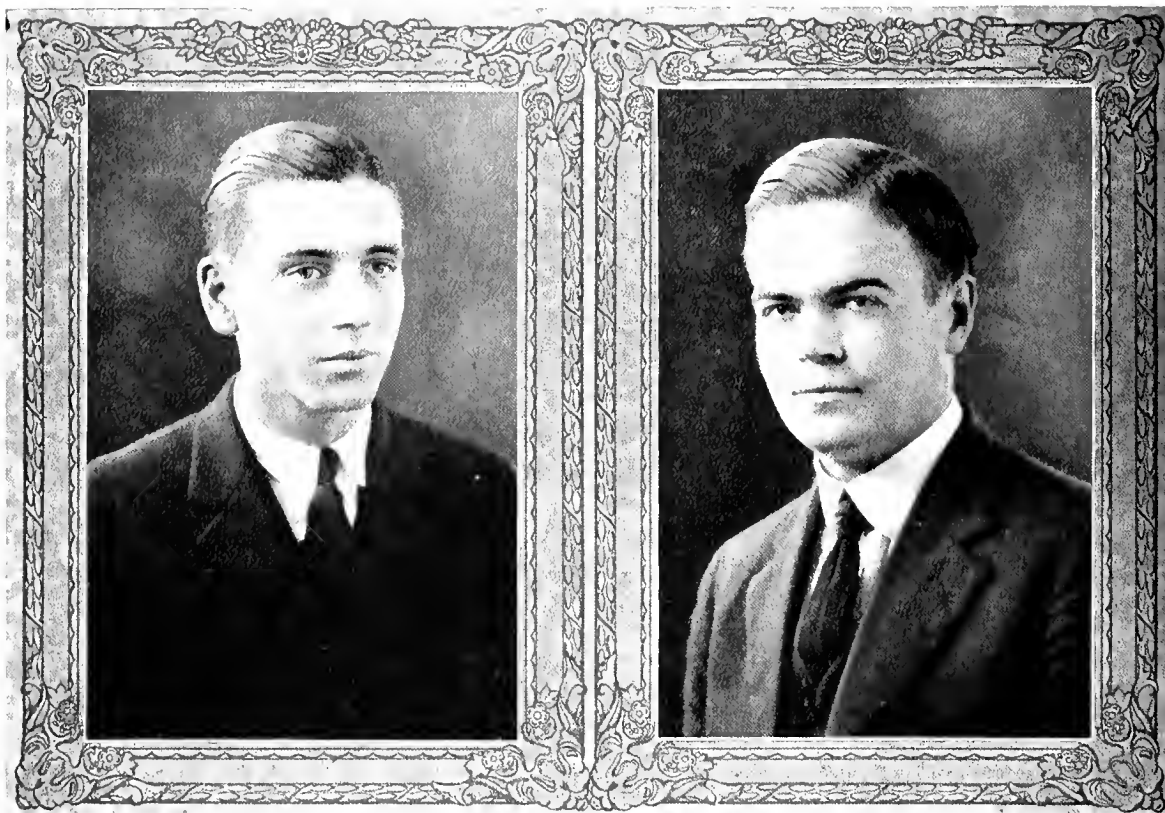

WHOSE beautiful description of the wonderful cotton-picking machine, every inch of which was parrot-perfect, and the whole of which was an ideal contraption—with the single little exception that it would not work—will long be a pleasant memory in the minds of those who heard the intersociety debate of 1923, and especially those who happened to be sitting on the right of the speaker. Mrs. Gross attributed this same little defect to Clifton's feet in the rehearsals of "If I Were King."

ESTHER JENNINGS EVANS,

WHOSE achievements in the department of English have been notable; not only has she done very creditable work in various courses, but for two years she has been a successful assistant director of the company. Quiet and unassuming in public, off the stage her originality has revealed itself in many a cleverly-planned stunt, party, or initiation; while her loyalty and sincerity have made her an ideal friend to those who have known her best.

WHO has been severely handicapped in his rushing this year, due to the fact that "Flop" Beavers and "Lim" both left school very unexpectedly during the year. Be it said to his credit, however, that he has never given up the fight, and in the end we expect the Betas to get some good men. "Vo" has divided most of his time between rushing of a different kind and the biology laboratory, which has consequently forced him to deprive the cast of his surprising dramatic ability entirely.

WILLIAM HOWARD FOY, O X E
MOUNT AIRY, NORTH CAROLINA

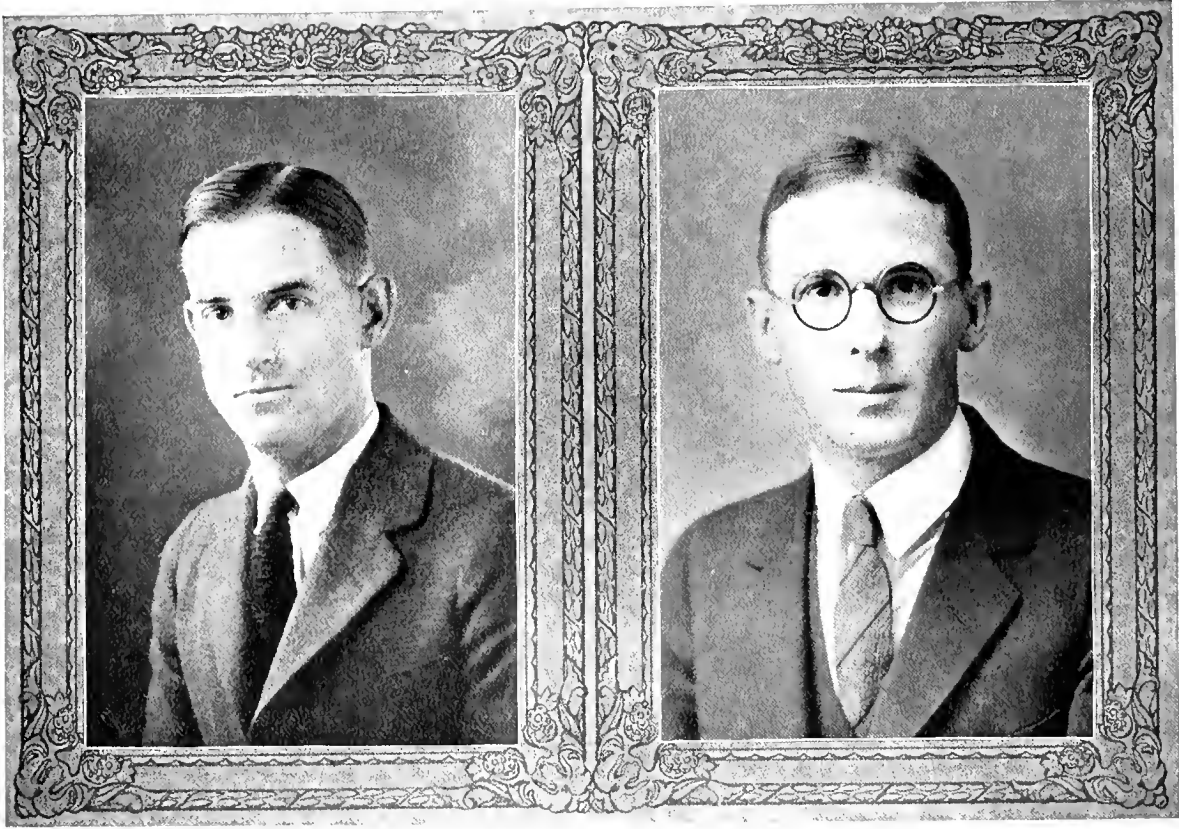

WHO would have made a decided success of his four years in college, even though he had done nothing more than appear before the grandstand and bleachers as cheer leader for two successive years. In this capacity he has done a great deal more for his college than many of the college parasites who give all their attention to the rules of rhetoric or the events of history, but never contribute to the life of the college itself. "Rusty" has gained a place in the hearts of the members of the Class of '24 that time will never efface.

WALTER CLARK GASTON
OF

WHO has appeared upon the arena in almost every form of athletic sport known to the theater, basketball, baseball, football, and track. A letter man in the last sport and an enthusiastic class and varsity player in the others, Gaston has acted his role in the play nobly, contributing his best to the success of his act. If he but play the game of life as consistently as he has the miniature version as seen in college, success will be his for the asking.

EARL SPENCER GILLEY
SPRAY, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is a past master at that most important of sociological processes, which grows ever-increasingly important as the complexities of society increase, which is most essential to the existence of man in his present state of extremely complicated inter-relationships with his fellow-man, and which is needed most keenly even in the very unimportant affairs of college life. The process of which we speak is co-operation. Gilley's only qualification which prevents his co-operative spirit from being perfect is that he evidently considers that he is subjecting himself to the authority of those with whom he co-operates.

FRED WOODSIDE GREENE

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

WIO gives the old "Ity-Ity" with a clarion voice which rings through the gymnasium and across the athletic field with a force which moves the old team to deeds of courage and valor equal to those committed by the Knights of the Crucifix, responding to the thundering battle-cry of Richard II. Yet Fred is never quite so much in his glory as when harmonizing with the "Happy Four," giving the piping notes of the tail end of a circus parade to the tenor of anything that's "got the right time."

HENRY GREEN

DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WIO has taken the four years of college life just as we would have it taken, as a play, where all the students are actors, where the campus is the stage, and where the instructors are the directors of the company. It is not that Henry has taken his college course lightly, but he has maintained the philosophic attitude that those who participate in the performance should act their parts with the best grace possible, and each realize that his part, no matter how small or how large it may be, is vital to the production of the drama. Ever since his earliest days in grammar school, Henry has been known as the toughest and hardest fellow to hurt that could be found in the class.

THOMAS MADISON GREENE, JR.

WEST DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is seemingly the most patriotic member of the great and exalted Class of '24, for he became so enthusiastic about the emblem of the class, that wise and noble bird which nightly sits and who's the wayward traveler along the lonely roads of the waste lands, that he procured an owl from some unknown source to enable some of the city-bred members of the class to see at first hand their adopted emblem. It is a safe wager that Tom has sold more groceries on Saturdays since he has been in college than the remainder of the class has eaten all together, but, judging from "Tom's" slight tendency towards corpulency, it seems that he has made a bit more use of Gilmer's bakery counter than he should have done.

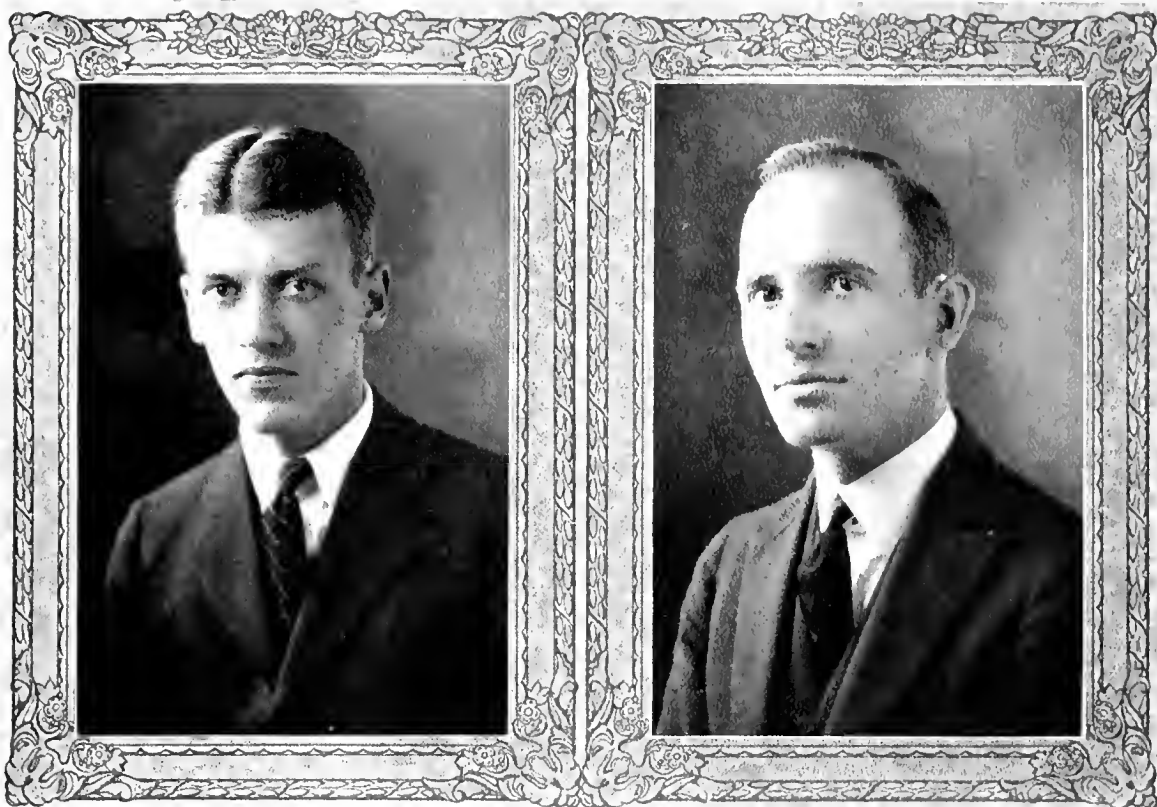

PAUL CLAYTON GURLEY

OF

HIGH POINT, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has not appeared in the leading roles in the play, nor has he made his presence on the stage obtrusive by its conspicuousness; yet his acting has been of the kind which presages consistency and even a place on the boards in life after college. In the realms of science he has made an enviable record, having filled high executive positions in the organizations of the departments of natural research. As one of the clan from the Furniture City, Paul has been unlike his fellow-citizens, Downey and Farriss, in that he has not expressed some adverse criticism about everything that has happened on the campus.

JOHN BALLE HARRIS, II K A
OF
ALBEMARLE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has displayed great sagacity and judgment with a marked lack of biggoted and prudish literalism in matters involving discipline; and offenders before the student council have always been assured of a fair and open hearing of their cases when John presides over the tribunal. He failed, however, to display that same sagacity of judgment in the matter of issuing football programs at the William and Mary game.

LOY VERNON HARRIS
OF
MOUNT GILEAD, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has learned a great deal of theoretical philosophy while sitting under Dr. Cranford, and a great deal of practical philosophy while cutting away at his barber chair in the basement of Jarvis. We are often dejected by the fact that many ministerial students look upon life from a rather literal and narrow point of view, and it is doubly fortunate that Loy is a man of very practical character. He has experienced one thing in college that he will never be able to deny: he has very meekly and uncomplainingly taken orders from a woman.

BESSIE HAYES

OF

JONESVILLE, SOUTH CAROLINA

WHO is one of the countless actors that began her career in a smaller theater, but last season joined the company. There could not have been a more excellent addition to the group, because she has the appearance, personality, and other requisites of a successful actor. Ask anyone who saw her in the "Trysting Place"! Behind Bessie's beautiful face there is a character which inspires in her friends the very loftiest of noble impulses.

Brooks Literary Society, Dramatic Club, Assistant in Chemistry; Carolina College (1-2)

CARRIE ISABEL HEARNE

OF

WILLARD, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE part in the play but very seldom removes her from one certain spot—the Science Hall. Here she cooks chemicals and anatomizes animals with a nonchalance which makes the uninitiated gasp in horror. Despite her faithfulness to one role, she can always be counted upon to be where she is needed, and to rise to whatever the occasion may demand. Her serenity and cheerfulness make her a most lovable actor.

HATTIE MARGARET HERNDON
OF
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE literary ability won for her recognition from that most exacting of critics, Dr. Brown, in that she was permitted to assume the role of an assistant director in the English Department, where her red pencil has been the delight of many an aspiring young actor, and the despair of many more. Withal, she has played her part with a finesse which augurs well for a brilliant future in the journalistic world.

ELIZABETH ALLEN HICKS, A. D. H.
OF
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO belonged to another company for almost three years, but realizing that there was a scarcity of slim blondes at the Trinity Theater, she was persuaded to join its troupe of actors. Critics are all of the opinion that she is a most capable actor, but only one who has seen her behind the footlights can conceive of the originality and clever ideas which this young woman possesses.

Greensboro College (1, 2).

MERRIMON TEAGUE HIPPS, X T
OF
WEST ASHEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

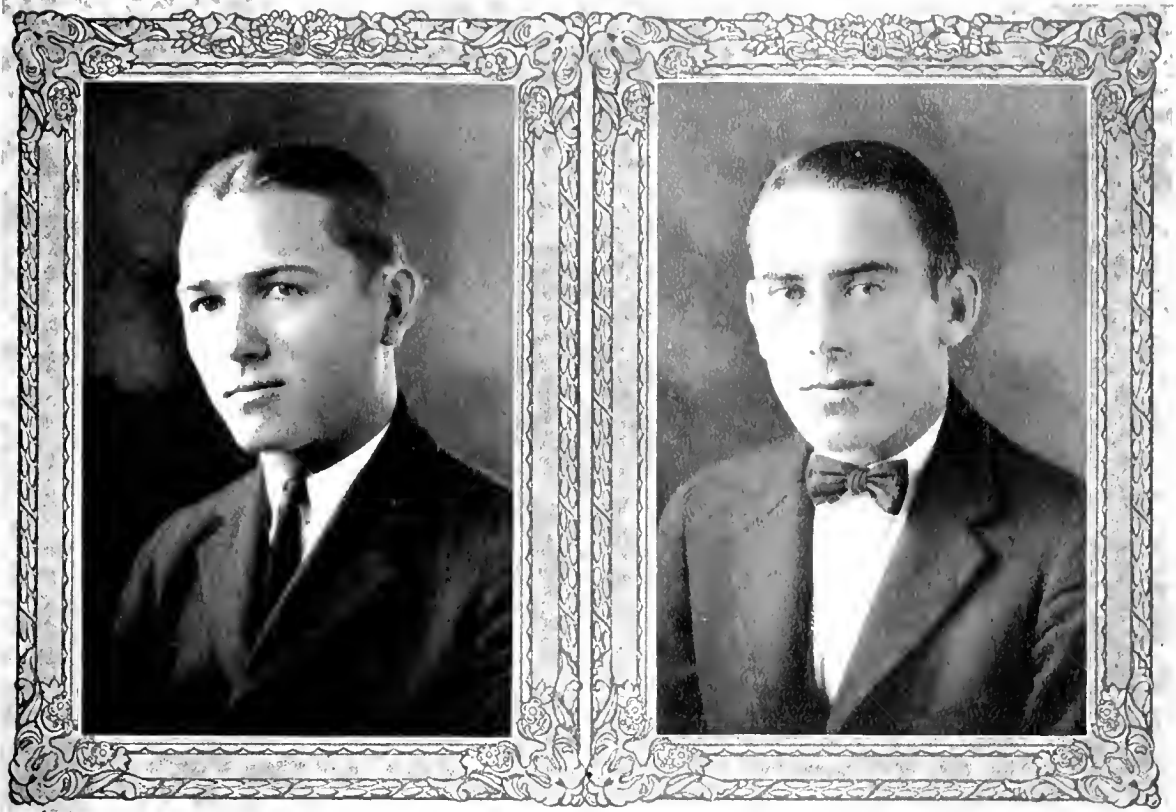

WHO has acted a part which has been little coveted by players of the past, a part which has given the actor the duty of attending to the moral welfare of the troupe. The gay, care-free actors have often been a bit forgetful of the more sober duties incumbent upon them, and Teague has been a noble reminder of this neglected element in the lives of the players.

WHOSE stage name "Shaggy" is decidedly misleading, because Webster defines "shaggy" as being something that is "rough with or as with long hair;" and she is not only bobbed haired, but the most gentle little actor imaginable. WHO has tasted the full measure of college politics. After three years of hard and efficient work as assistant manager of the Chronicle, P. After it is all over, however, he is suspected of wishing that that same machine had been successful in its attempts in his regard.

WHO is the prince of serenaders. Oft on the stilly night has his tuneful lay wafted over the breezes toward the window where the drowsy-headed maidens pull their curtains aside and list longingly to the thrilling notes of his Gibson instrument. Not only in the musical division of the company's repertoire has "Bob" found a place, however, for right well has he acquitted himself both with the racket and the pen for the honor and glory of Trinity.

WHOSE beauty and pleasing personality have had an irresistible appeal for the masses of people; in fact, from the beginning of her rise in the theatrical world she has always had a large number of ardent admirers. WHO, even though she is quiet and unassuming, and in spite of the fact that her stay with the company has been very short, has already demonstrated her ability to hold an office among that most exacting board of directors—the Women's Student Council. Her position is commanding, but she does not let her obligations to it press upon her so heavily that she is not the exemplification of good sportsmanship.

HICKORY, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE career has indeed been a busy one, for she has played diversified parts, proving to the most skeptical critic that an actress may have many social obligations without neglecting the more serious business of the stage. Apparently nothing ever disturbs her. No matter what may happen, she is still the same smiling, daintily-dressed girl, ready to go to the Dope Shop or downtown.

WHO has been to the play which has performed at the Trinity Theater during the past few years what everybody has been, and more than which nobody is ever capable of being, an actor in the play. Each has his part to play, each has his time to strut about the stage in the gorgeous magnificence of an important role, and each must do his individual part well, regardless of its nature, before he may be granted the laurel of success. Frank has performed his part according to the true style of a gentleman and a Christian.

*H*ER determination and close application to her chosen role brought her into the limelight immediately after her entrance upon the stage. She has had always one ideal of what an actor should be, and her thorough adherence to that ideal has excited the admiration of all. Continuous study has brought to her the distinction which many covet and few attain—initiation into Phi Beta Kappa. Her reputation was made long before her fellow players had even mastered their cues.

*H*IS has been the scintillating orb of glorious radiance when the Class of '24 has depended upon her football team to uphold her honor in the arena. No more dashing end has been seen under the '24 standard, and we wonder why Herbert did not attempt to make a position on the varsity eleven. This saxon-haired youth might easily have gained for himself and for his college glory and victory on the gridiron had his aspirations been in the direction of athletic achievement.

WHOSE multifarious activities, which range from the blood-curdling pre-initiation ceremonies of Delta Phi Rho Alpha to the furthering of "Say it with flowers," do not disconcert her in the least because she has enough surplus energy for two people. WHO has the unique distinction of being one of the only two men who can be in the nominative case after the verb "see." It must be clearly understood that there is a peculiarity about this man which enables him to enjoy this unique distinction almost individually, a distinction which is absolutely unique with but one exception. After Maynard had attained the honor of Phi Beta Kappa, such expressions as "Pung," "Chow," and "Mah-Jongg", which issued forth from his room, showed that the intricate game of Mah-Jongg was the final world to be conquered by his mental acumen.

WHO retires into seclusion every year until class football starts, but no sooner has the Class of '24 taken the field than Kendall trots out his old baseball breeches and chases the swine epidermis along with "Bill" Bullock, John Tyler, Herbert Judd, and others of class football fame. When the quarter wants somebody who will plunge the line without being afraid that his fingernails might get broken, he always calls old C. A.'s number; and a response is always given that carries the head linesman's marker five or six yards further toward the enemy's goal. Kendall's plunge is indicative of everything that he goes after. ELMA KLUTTZ
WEST DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE propensity for leaving the stage just as soon as she has actually completed her work is exceeded only by the seriousness with which she appears to regard things in general. Mere external appearances can be very deceiving, however, because she is really quite vivacious and knows thoroughly the art of having a good time wherever she is. She comes out of the wilds northwest of the campus once a day and cheers the school with her presence, only to leave it desolate again as she retires to her northern fastness.

ETHEL LOUISE KLUTTZ
OF

WHOSE august presence among the noble and celestial beings which compose the Class of '24 was, for a long time, a question of doubtful termination, and to say that we have felicitated ourselves with the glorious information that she is to add her undeniable charm to the sublime group, of which we are celestially proud of being called a member, is to state most prosaically what could only be adequately expressed in verse. Ethel comes to us like zephyrs of the South after having lived in a typhoon, her presence radiates incense of happiness, and we shall be eternally grateful to the kind deity which guided her back to the shores of '24.

WIO is one of the most cold-hearted theme readers who ever wrote 65 CR on the back of a poor Freshman's earnest attempt at an acceptable composition. Such terms as "Lack of perspicuity" often adorn the outside of themes which have more red marks on them than black ones. Regardless of all this, however, Leake has an excellent sense of humor which alone enables him to peruse the awkward attempts at literature handed in by the earnest writers. In the 9019 initiations, the most vicious and blood-thirsty paddle of the lot is wielded by the powerful hand of Leake.

HERBERT IRWIN McDOUGLE
OF
BLACK MOUNTAIN, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE staunchness of character is like the gentle and hardly perceptible swaying of the sturdy oak in the fierce March winds as against the wild and frantic contortions of the weeping willow. While the willow is the less liable to be uprooted, and while the inclination of the tree in the path of the wind is often a more successful method of resistance to the furious blasts than stubborn and unmoving opposition, yet the good accomplished by the oak, the amount of space and things it potentially shelters, and the amount of valuable material furnished by its trunk and branches is immeasurably greater than that effected by the willow. "Mac" has been a steady and unwavering member of the '24 cast.

CLARKE WEBSTER McNAIRY
OF

WHO came to school at the beginning of his Senior year in what was more nearly a cross between a Ford and a wheelbarrow than anything else. Regardless of the nature of the car (or we might as well call it a limousine while we are calling), "Mac" was the most popular boy in the section immediately, especially around meal time or when going downtown. The article of circumlocution finally evolved into a Ford coupe, however, and "Mac" now rides in as much style as anybody on the campus. WHO has a long drawing voice that is as filled with dry wit as the ocean with salt water. Mercer knew how to work Dr. Glasson on Economics III by standing up while giving his report to the class. As one of the students from Durham, he has not had the opportunity of dormitory life to the extent that most of the students have, but it is a difficult problem to decide whether his seeming handicap has been a curse or a blessing, for he has been able to enter into the activities and associations of college life without having to experience the corresponding hardships of Aycock or Jarvis. Mercer's peculiar line has gained for him many life-long friends on the campus.

WHOSE mind is filled with the contemplation of the impalpable, whose thoughts are above the insignificant matters of mere school life, and whose world is somewhere out beyond the bounds of finite existence. Transcendental idealism is the keynote of his mental activities, and teleological, hedonistic, or formalistic points of view are the materials with which he amuses his leisure moments. WHO has entered once more into the care-free, irresponsible life of the college boy, the life which the students take so extremely seriously, but which in reality is all merely a play, a childish imitation of actual existence in the world itself. With all his experience out in the disillusioned world of the man, Mr. Norton has been able to lay aside his worldly cares for a year and gain anew the imaginative, ambitious, and fantastic spirit of the boy, a life which to him must have seemed to emphasize enormously the really unessentials which have been distorted by the shackled vision of inexperience, warped by the shallowness of untried minds, by the misuse of materials, of advantages.

GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is one of the few men in the class who saw actual service during the war. He entered with the Class of '23, but, like several members of that worthy class, he dropped out a year and re-entered with the Class of '24. It is a problem to decide whether all these members of '23 dropped into the next class because they thought it was a better class, or because they thought it was a worse class, and they would consequently have a better chance to shine among the duller lights of the lower class. We flatter ourselves into believing that Enoch's reason was the former.

Hesperian Literary Society, Marshal (2); Chairman Executive Committee (1); ex-Serv-ice Men's Club, President (2); Pan-Hellenic Council, Secretary (3)

JOSEPH JOHN STAMEY
OF
RUTHERFORD COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is the Beau Brummel of the class. Always immaculate of dress and correct of style, he adorns the wall on Sunday afternoons for the glory of Trinity College. John is to be complimented upon his nerve and upon his choice of courses, for he elected Economics VII in his Senior year as an extra subject. Seniors usually do not take such foolish chances nor do they crave so much work during their last year in school.

Columbian Literary Society, Secretary (2), Marshal (2); Hades Club; College Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A.

FRANCES TABOR
OF
BURNSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

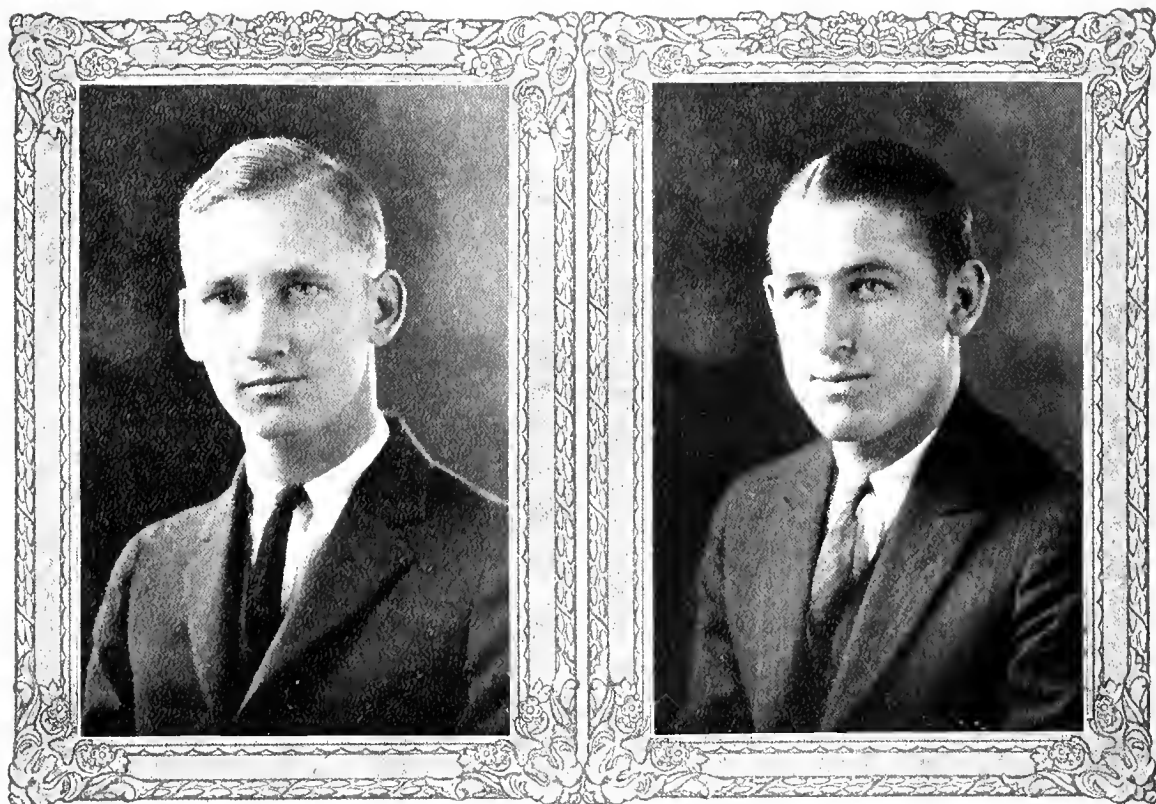

WHO is really a very dignified member of the company in spite of her bobbed hair. It is to be regretted that she could not have been with the company longer, because the swift game of tennis she plays is no doubt indicative of thoroughness in every line of endeavor. Judging from the wonderful pictures which she displays that were taken from the tops of lofty mountain peaks or deep, narrow valleys, Frances is evidently a lover of the great out-of-doors.

Davenport College (1, 2, 3).

LUCY THWEATT TAYLOR, Z. T. A.
STOVALL, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is one of the most dependable players in the troupe. No matter what role she may be called upon to fill, she always acquits herself creditably. Nothing phases her, not even the passing of Lap's history courses, the hardest fought game of tennis, work in the Dramatic Club, or the superintending of a little sister. Her type of actor is the backbone of the company.

Davenport College (1); Y. W. U. V. (1); District (1); Brooks Literary Society (1); (2); President (1); Women's Athletic Association (1); Treasurer (1); Dramatic Club (1); (2); (1); Vice-President (1).

GEORGE FRANKLIN TROLLINGER
OF
LEASBURG, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is about the best collector in the crowd, a trait which he gained from close association with O. G. Sawyer and O. A. Robinson last year, we suppose. "Trolly" has a way about coming around and unobtrusively and unoffensively getting the trade that enables him to do more business on the campus than a dozen birds who intrude into rooms at all hours of night and obnoxiously demand attention. We understand that "Trolly" owns a hotel or two in Atlantic City which he manages every summer. He'll probably own the entire city before long.

Assistant Manager "Chronicle" (2); Historical Society; Folklore Society; Person County Club; Y. M. C. A.; Trinity Park School Club; Treasurer (3); Assistant Manager "Chanticleer" (1).

JOHN HENRY TYLER, II K Φ
OF
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO gives the appearance of being entirely business, and as manager of the CHANTICLEER he has caused all the students to look upon him as the one who takes all their money. "Wat" has, however, in addition to his ability as a manager, a rare style of witty doggerel verse which he has made known only to those who have known him intimately. He never shows his true colors until somebody attempts to beat his time, but then all the fighting spirit of the Tyler family is consummated in the last of the crew.

Durham High School Club; Class Football (1, 2, 3); Class Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); "T" Club; Manager Track (1); Manager "Chanticleer" (1); Y. M. C. A.; Beta Omega Sigma; Tondus.

MYRTISE HARTON WASHBURNE

OF
BOSTIC, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE ready smile and happy disposition have gained her many friends in the company with which she cast her lot during its last year. Her fellow-actors envy her the never-failing good spirits which do not desert her even in the presence of such near catastrophes as "Bull" Brown's fearful English III quizzes.

Davenport College (1, 2); Davenport Club, Rutherford County Club; Brooks Literary Society; Women's Glee Club.

LUCH'S STACEY WEAVER

OF
MONROE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is conceded by all to be the best bull artist in school, especially when the session is held for the purpose of discussing anything pertaining to collegiate athletics. No college athlete of any importance has lived within the past ten years whose history is not known to Stacey, and he himself is no tender opponent when he is contending for class basketball honors, or playing "hard boy." Under Stacey's rather unscholastic countenance there is a brain that is surprisingly brilliant.

HENRY MARVIN WELLMAN
OF
MOCKSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is the type of man who lends steadiness and level-headedness to the class which would otherwise be probably rather carefree and flippant. Wellman has one honor that no other member of the class can boast, and of which very few will be able to boast any time in the near future. He is the proud father of two excellent children. Except for his superior wisdom and experience, however, we have not felt that he was any older than any of the rest of us, for he has been as much one of us as any of our twenty-year-old students of the usual type and character.

Rutherford College; Rutherford College Club; Columbian Literary Society; Ministerial Band; Classical Club, Treasurer (3); Married; Father of Two Children.

MARY VANDEAU WILKINSON
OF
CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

WHOSE varied honors attest the thoroughness with which she performs the duties assigned her. Her unquestioned ability presages for her a distinctive career in her chosen work—that of a foreign missionary.

Davenport College (1, 2); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (1); W. S. G. A. Council (4); Brooks Literary Society, Treasurer (1); Davenport College Club; Ekko-L; Dramatic Club, Cast "If I Were King."

DOROTHY WILSON
OF
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

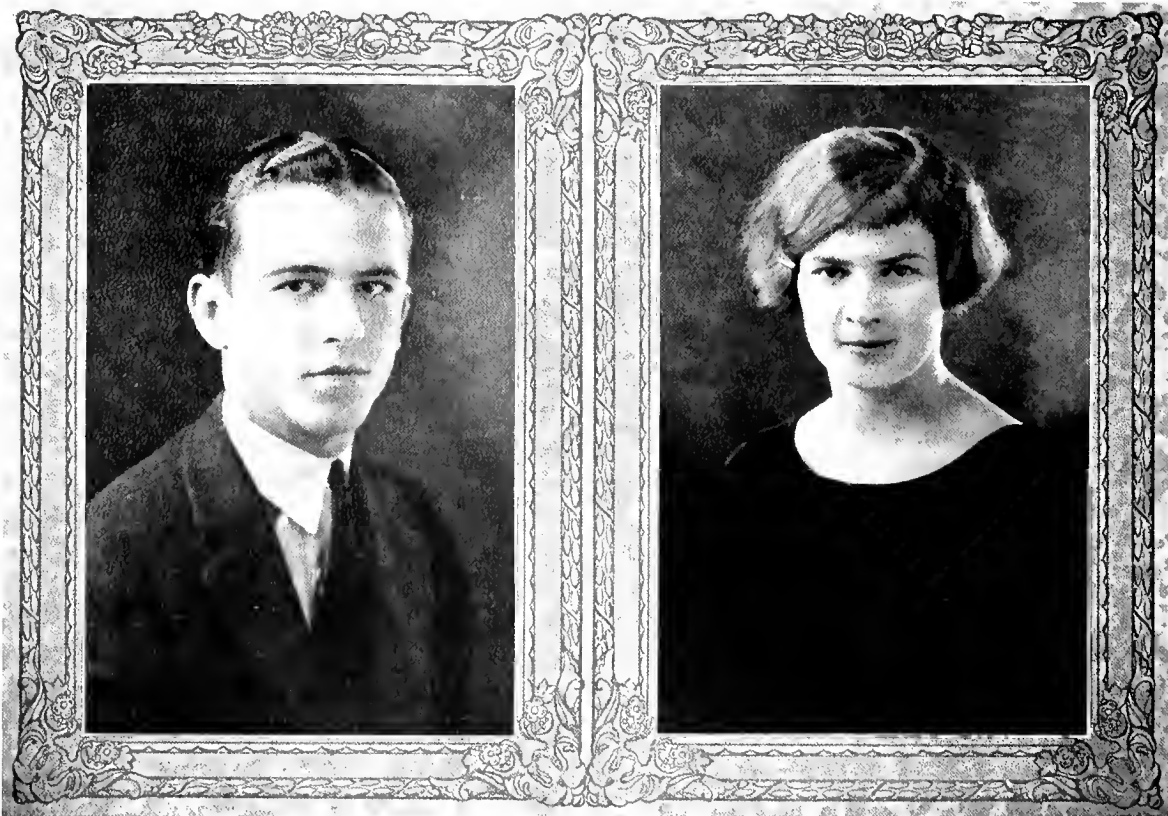

WHO decided that the present company offered more alluring opportunities than the lesser company with which she began her stage career three years ago. From the Orient, where she spent her childhood, she has brought an inscrutable charm and a quiet reserve that, as only a favored few have discovered, hides a surprising fund of originality and initiative.

Athena Literary Society, Vice-President (C), Chairman Program Committee (C), Natural History Club; Delta Phi Rho Alpha.

MINNIE WILSON
OF
WARREN PLAINS, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO has spent relatively little time on the scene of action; but who has not neglected to perform most conscientiously the various parts assigned her. Her work, both on the stage and off, has been of a consistent quality. So much of her time, however, has been occupied with outside interests that few of her fellow actors have had an opportunity to realize her essential worth.

Greensboro College (C, 2), Warren County Club.

LEMUEL BRUCE WYNNE, X T
OF
WILLIAMSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

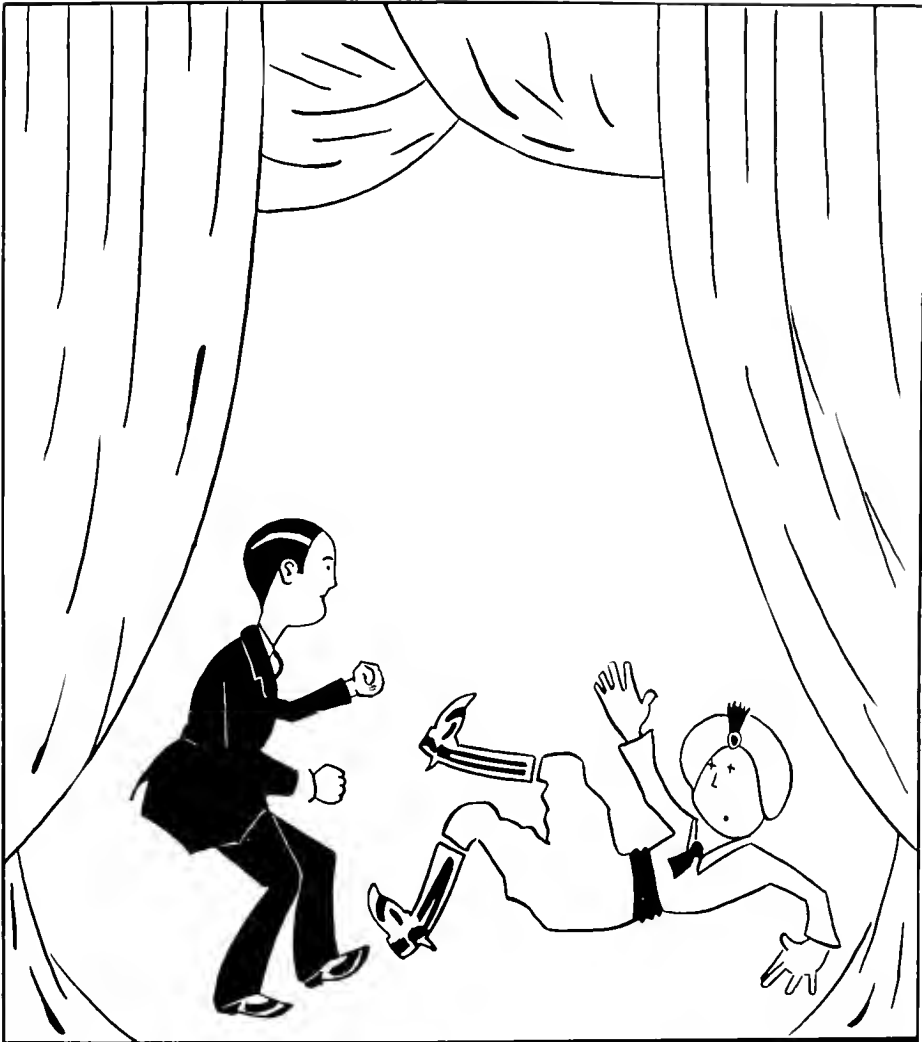

WHO is the curly-haired youth from the East who may be as firmly depended upon to be at class on time as the morning sun to rise from out the impalpable depths of the unknown—in the West. His schoolgirl complexion accords with the bloom of health upon the face of the girl in the Palmolive advertisement, and his good humor corresponds in every detail to the cheerful indication on his countenance. He has been among us as one who radiates happiness upon the sordid events of ordinary school life.

Folklore Society, Sandhoppers Club, President (3), Y. M. C. A.

MILDRED CECIL ZIMMERMAN
OF
LEXINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA

WHO is another actor that decided to come to the Trinity Theater after having been with another company for three seasons. Having established a reputation for thoroughness and capability while filling her previous contract, it was not difficult for this young lady of the bobbed blonde locks and contagious smile to become endeared to her fellow actors; and it was not long before several offices of importance were thrust upon her.

Davenport College (1, 2, 3); Davenport Club; Brooks Literary Society, Chairman Program Committee (4).

	Alumni Secretary

There are alumni associations in forty-three counties of North Carolina, in Atlanta, New York, Norfolk, Richmond, Nashville, and Washington. Meetings of these associations are held from two to six times a year.

The New Alumni Organization

For the first time in the history of the school have the authorities come to realize that the power of the school lies in its alumni. For two or three years the alumni department was given to the same man who held the office of Graduate Manager of Athletics, but a very short time proved that the alumni secretary had a position which demanded his undivided attention. Consequently, R. E. Thigpen, '22, was made all-time secretary of the alumni. Under his supervision the department has developed into a great organization, comprising over fifty associations.

The alumni of Trinity are at present undertaking four major projects, all of which are progressing more than satisfactorily. The first manifestation of the former students of the school, which has been finally completed, is the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. That mythical, elusive, imaginative, wonderful project which was born in the minds of alumni some ten or twelve years ago, has finally been brought to a glorious culmination in the shape of the handsome gymnasium which is shown at the top of this page. The Trinity basketball team for 1923-1924 very fittingly dedicated the building during the past season by playing the undisputed champions of the South to the closest basketball game played by the latter during the entire season. Indeed, the Trinity team made more field goals than did the champions, but the decision went to Carolina by the margin of three foul goals. For the first time in the history of the school basketball games have not been rendered unenjoyable by the inability of the old gymnasium to accommodate the spectators. The entire student body joins in thanking the alumni for the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium.

A second project of the alumni, which has already assumed large proportions, is the General Alumni Fund. This fund has already reached the twenty-five thousand dollar mark, and in the future it is destined to be one of the most useful sources of financial aid to worthy students or organizations in existence. The fund differs from the general endowment of the college in that it is to be used for loans to students who have shown that they are promising scholars, athletes, or social workers, or is to be used to defray the general expenses of the alumni office.

A third activity in which the officers of the alumni are engaged at present is organizing alumni associations throughout the country. During the past two years some fifty of these organizations have been established, both in North Carolina and outside the state. The enthusiasm of the old students for the school of their younger days is really remarkable, and at every meeting of the alumni memories and experiences of days back at Trinity are related with an earnestness that would thrill the most cold-hearted listener. The power of these organizations is inestimable.

The final recipient of the attention of the alumni is the Alumni Register. This magazine has been changed from a quarterly to a monthly publication, and the general contents have been greatly improved. The alumni secretary has been given the duty of editing and managing the Register, with Banks Arendell, '17, as associate managing editor. Through the publication of the alumni, a movement is on foot to procure a complete war record of every alumnus who wore a uniform during the European war. Such a record is rapidly being completed.

The purpose of the Alumni Association is to build up at this institution a greater Trinity, and during the past year it has made wonderful progress in this direction.

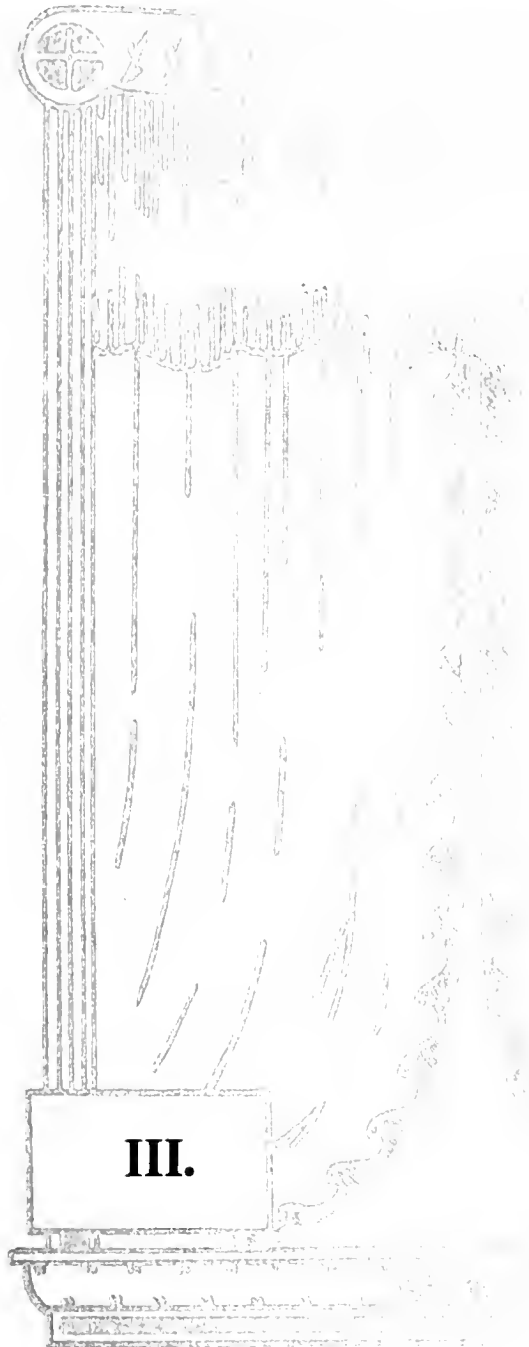

Just One Thought of Thee

Oh, just one thought of thee, my dear,
 When in the depth of sin;
Oh, just one thought of thee, when fear
 Doth grip my soul within;
Oh, just one call from thy sweet voice,
 When hopes around me die,
Can make my heart once more rejoice
 And raise my courage high.

When the siren song of sin
 With luring, damning swell,
Calls back the times that once have been
 And drags me down to hell;
When from Habit's iron chain
 No Will can set me free,
Oh, what can make me pure again
 Except one thought of thee?

When I think how thou lov'st me
 And how that I am thine,
What care I how fleshy be
 The pots of Egypt's shine?
What care I how sin may smile?
 Her smile is but a leer,
And can me ne'er beguile
 If I think of thee, my dear!

THE REPertoire

College Students Are Actors

College students are actors playing the manifold drama of college life. The full repertoire of the company comprises all the organized activities in which the actors engage:

STUDY
ATHLETICS
PUBLICATIONS
DEBATING
DRAMATICS
SOCIAL LIFE

Very few actors can perform well a part in every number of the repertoire, and no more deplorable wreck may be found than the discarded mask of an actor who has attempted to carry too many parts, or whose time was so largely taken with the side-shows that he never came to the main tent. Those whose faces appear in the following pages performed in parts other than that which is required of us all, the student.

The College Play

*As now the curtain falls upon another year
Once more appears our merry "Chanticleer."
A volume neat he brings. In it we see
In many scenes the passing pageantry
Of this short year. In sooth, it is a play.
The college is the stage, and there we see
Directors, "Props"—they are the faculty—
From whom each actor does his lines well learn.
The acts are four. Therein each class in turn
Doth act its part. All hope your praise to win
In these activities they enter in.
You may one class above the other raise,
But we give Trinity the greatest praise.*

Cheer Leaders

The story of the morale of the Trinity student body during the year 1923-1924 is remarkable in many respects. To those skeptic persons who doubt the great value to a team of a thousand throats sounding in unison as the ball goes into play, we refer the 1923 football season as proof against their contention. If the spirit of Trinity during this season were graphically represented, the line would show a steady incline from the first game until the twelfth of October, at which time we played Carolina. At this game more spirit was shown by the Trinity students than has ever been shown at this institution during the memory of some of the oldest members of the community. All restraint was cast with the hats to the winds, and alumni and undergraduates joined in the frantic contortions of a saddled steer when expressing their emotions after an advantage gained by Trinity.

After this game one could not even start a bull feast about football. The subject was dead. It was not that the students were disheartened, for they were all extremely proud of the showing their team had made, but they were simply played out on emotion. They had used up their entire supply. After an interval of some time, the spirit was revived, and it was all the better for the episode.

TRINITY

Trinity, Trinity, How we love her banner, her banner. Trinity, Trinity,

We her name will sing. Trinity, Trinity,

Here's to the flag she flies. Yes, boys, in Glory, we'll sing the same old story, of old T R I N I T - Y .

*"The song that nerves a nation's heart
Is in itself a deed."*

Athletic Coaches for 1923-1924

Coach Howard Jones

Securing the services of such a man as Coach Howard Jones for the head of the coaching staff at Trinity, marks the entrance of this school into the realms of real collegiate athletics. Coach Jones was a great star for Yale University during his undergraduate days, and for the past few years he has made a marvelous record as a coach at the University of Iowa. Nothing in sporting circles in the South caused such excitement as the signing of a contract by Jones to coach at Trinity, and up to date he has lived up to every expectation.

Resume of the 1923 Season

By F. A. BRIDGERS

THE GUILFORD GAME

Beginning the season with a whirlwind defeat of Guilford on September 29, the Blue Devils showed a world of drive and power. The Quakers went down, 68 to 0. The Trinity backs ran wild through the Guilford line and scored touchdown after touchdown with comparative ease. Shipp and Lagerstadt were outstanding players in this game, supported by an unyielding line.

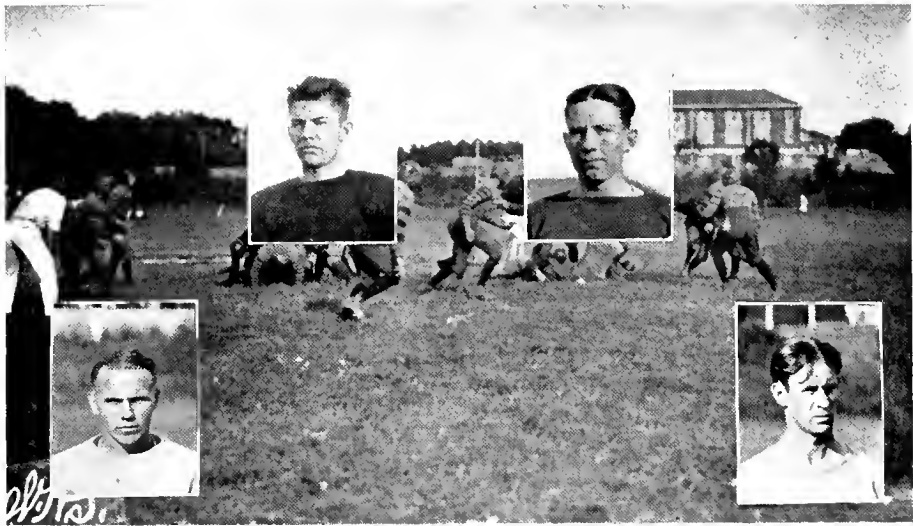

THE RANDOLPH-MACON GAME

On October 6 the Blue Devils again smashed their way to an overwhelming victory by setting back Randolph-Macon, 54 to 0. The Methodist line in this contest showed a little weakness in getting off, a weakness which became more pronounced in the Carolina game on the following week. In the Randolph-Macon scrap Shipp was the outstanding individual star.

THE CAROLINA GAME

The Trinity-Carolina tilt on October 12 was decidedly the best played contest in the state. Hard fought throughout, although marred somewhat by numerous penalties, this game demonstrated much real football. Despite a line weakened from the start by the injury of Williams and Hatcher, Coach Steiner's men gave the university eleven its best fight and scored on it the only touchdown made on the Fetzer aggregation in the state this year. The 14 to 6 score shows that neither team had any great odds. A feature of the game was the punting of Shipp and Simpson, while to Bullock goes the distinction of having made the Trinity touchdown.

THE WILLIAM AND MARY GAME

With their line battered and bruised and their backfield partly crippled as a result of the Carolina game, the Blue Devils were defeated by the William and Mary Indians in Rocky Mount on October 20. From the very outset the breaks were against the Trinity eleven. Costly fumbles and an intercepted pass of the Methodists resulted in the three Indian touchdowns. In straight football the Trinity team clearly outclassed that of William and Mary, a fact indicated in part by Trinity's making eight first downs to the five of the opposing team. The 21 to 0 score, though disappointing, was not unexpected on account of the crippled condition of the Blue Devils. The spectacular playing of Carter and the effective work of Taylor as right guard were of special note.

THE VIRGINIA GAME

The Virginia game in Charlottesville on October 27 marked the third straight defeat for Trinity. The great reserve of the Dominion players quickly tore to pieces the patched Trinity line and scored five touchdowns with comparative ease. The main weakness of the Blue Devils was in having no reserve to cope with the three backfields employed so effectively by Virginia. In this contest, the only one played outside the state, and one which renewed gridiron relations with Virginia for the first time since 1893, the work of Porter and Captain Simpson was especially outstanding.

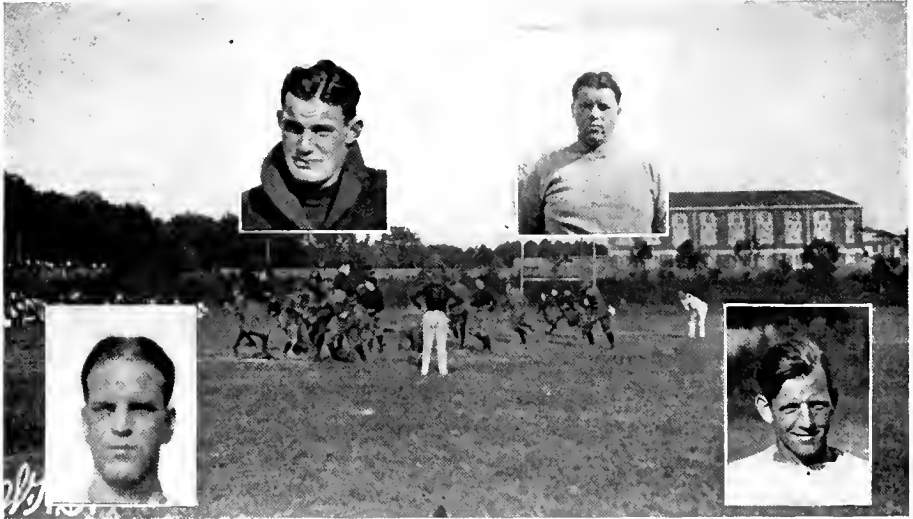

THE ELON GAME

With the change in coaching staff and with the introduction of a new style of play, the Blue Devils once more came out triumphant, winning over Elon in Greensboro on November 3 by a 39 to 0 victory. After having been coached by Alexander for a week, the Trinity team, with its new aerial attack and line-smashing drives, was able to sweep the Elon team off its feet. At no time during the game was the Methodist goal imperiled. Stellar work was done by Shipp and Bullock, both of whom tore off numerous long runs, and by Captain Simpson, who broke through the opposing line repeatedly to throw the Elon backs for heavy losses.

THE WAKE FOREST GAME

The Armistice Day contest with Wake Forest in Winston-Salem was a close and hard-fought fray, but undoubtedly the Baptists had the breaks; they scored both of their touchdowns on long runs after slipping by the Trinity secondary defense, and made a safety on a Trinity fumble. The score, 16 to 6, and the excellent playing of the team proved, in spite of defeat, the value of the tactics instituted by Coach Alexander.

THE NEWBERRY GAME

The Newberry game, on November 24, gave the Blue Devils a chance to open up their aerial attack in full blast, with the result that they scored three touchdowns against the South Carolinians. The Newberry eleven made two touchdowns on intercepted passes. The Trinity team, as a whole, and especially the line, showed marked improvement and was able to break through the Newberry defense. Hatcher and Huckabee did valiant service, while the backs and Simpson showed their usual good form.

THE DAVIDSON GAME

On November 29, in Charlotte, before a large crowd, composed almost entirely of Davidson backers, the Blue Devils swept to victory over the Wildcats by the score of 18 to 6. Although frequent punting was resorted to on both sides, it was evident, throughout the game, that the Methodist team was decidedly superior to that of the Presbyterians. Captain Simpson called signals for the Blue Devil Squad, and the way he kept the men under control and the foresight he exhibited in running the team aroused the interest and admiration of the spectators. Shipp's forty-yard run, which gave the final touchdown, was a striking incident of the game.

THE TRINITY FOOTBALL SQUAD, 1923

Resume of Freshman Football Season

SINCE the reinstatement of football at Trinity as an intercollegiate sport, there has been a constantly growing need for a Freshman football team with a full-time coach. There enters Trinity every year much good material which, on account of lack of experience, cannot make the varsity squad, but which, with the proper elementary training, would develop into powerful players for the gridiron. To supply this lack of training, a Freshman team was created with Tom Neal, the captain of last year's varsity, as coach. In answer to the call for candidates for the first-year team about forty men responded, of whom perhaps six had played a little football, and only three of these had any real experience. Twenty of the candidates had never seen a football game before they came to Trinity, while two or three had never even seen a football. To Coach Neal, therefore, goes considerable credit for being able to develop from such material a really good team, one which held the State Freshmen to one lone touchdown in the final game of the season.

In view of the fact that the organization of the Freshman team had as its purpose the teaching of the rudiments of football to more or less inexperienced material, it can be accurately stated that the results in actual playing were highly satisfactory. The opening game was with Oak Ridge, one of the best prep teams in the state, and the game fight put up by the Red Devils resulted in their being able to hold the Oak Ridge team to the score of 15 to 6. The next opponent, the Apprentice School of Newport News, was one of the best prep teams in the South, one that had defeated the Freshmen of Washington and Lee earlier in the season by 33 to 0. Coach Neal's men were able to hold the apprentices to a 13 to 0 count, but due to an oversight on the part of the timekeeper the game lasted ten minutes too long, and the score was swelled to 27 to 0 by the addition of two touchdowns made in the extra time. In the game against the Greensboro Highs the whole team was disorganized. Consequently the 19 to 0 defeat suffered by the Blue Devils was not surprising. Improvement was shown in the contest of the following week with the Independent Club of High Point. Neal played at quarter and had the team in good running order with the outcome that the Freshmen won to the tune of 12 to 0. The final game was with North Carolina State, and the Blue Devils played brilliantly throughout, yet, on account of having no reinforcements to match against the heavy reserves thrown against them, they were defeated by the score of 6 to 0.

Resume

By W. ROLFE BROWN

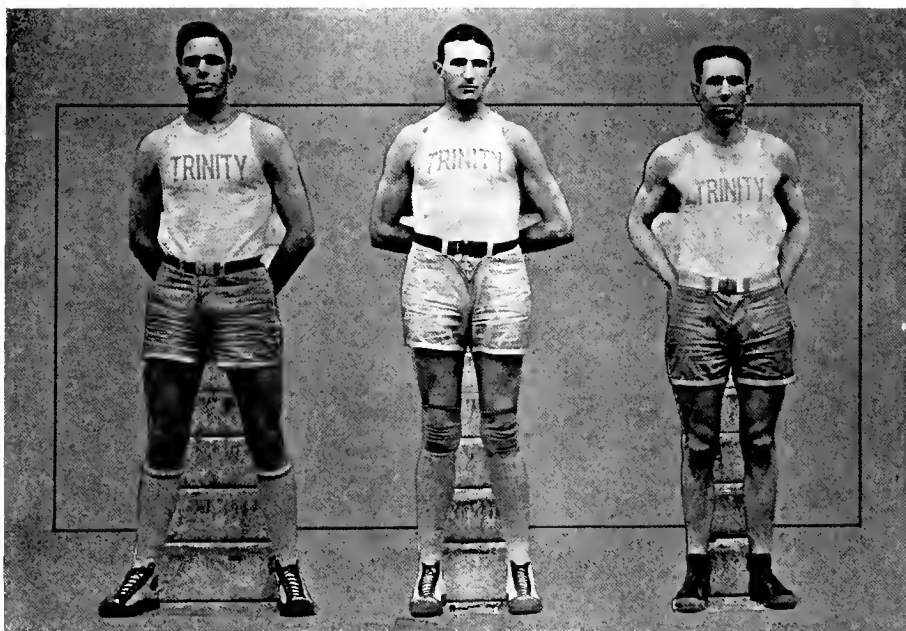

With the new Alumni Memorial Gymnasium as a training ground and the return of six letter men, the Trinity basketeers opened the season of 1923-24 with a flying start in a spectacular victory over Camp Bragg on December 15. To prevent the scores going entirely out of sight, Coach Burbage put in his second team after the first fifteen minutes play and again toward the last of the game. The score was 60 to 23.

During the Christmas holidays a short trip into Virginia resulted in two victories for the team. The Norfolk Epworth League went down before Trinity by a score of 31 to 28, and on New Year's night the Richmond Blues suffered a similar fate at the hands of the Blue Devils by 36 to 33. Both of these games were hard fought and were won as a result of the consistent work of the Trinity team.

The first collegiate contest of the year, and the first game ever played in the new gymnasium, brought Trinity a close victory of 29 to 25 over Mercer University. Trinity held a slight majority throughout most of the game, but the result was by no means certain until near the close of the game.

The Durham Elks were the next victims and suffered a 43 to 36 defeat.

Then came the 30 to 17 score against Guilford. This was the first real test of Trinity's strength in the state, and the victory augured well for the successful season that was to follow.

The Camp Bragg boys came over for a return engagement and succeeded in scoring ten points, while the Blue Devils were piling up fifty-eight. Then the Richmond Blues came down to get their revenge and made the Trinity boys work for their money, but the local tossers came out ahead with a score of 38 to 32.

On January 25 a game of considerable interest in the state was played with Wake Forest. The Baptists had just completed a successful trip and came looking rather formidable. The Blue Devils had their hands full, but at the end of a fast game they had a score of 26 against their opponents' 22. North Carolina State came over for an amusing, but not very interesting, game and suffered a defeat of 37 to 23.

The winning, however, was not destined to go on in an uninterrupted fashion. The Trinity team went over to the University and came back with the small end of a 31 to 20 score. The first half appeared as if it might be a walk-away for Carolina and ended with the score of 14 to 6, but Captain Spikes' men rallied and outplayed their opponent in the second half. The early lead, however, was too great to overcome. Spikes and Crute were the stars of the game.

On the Southern trip this year the Trinity team had an even break, winning four out of the eight games played. Only six of these games were collegiate contests, of which three were won. The game with Statesville, the first of the trip, was begun with most of the second team on the floor. Near the end of the first half the regulars went in and, with Captain Spikes starring, brought the game to a close with the score 40 to 28. Davidson next felt the force of the Blue Devils' attack, and in one of the best basketball exhibitions that a Charlotte audience saw during the season, the Methodists were victorious with a score of 40 to 30.

In South Carolina the Trinity warriors took a game from the Furman quint, 32 to 29, and journeyed over to the University, where they suffered the first defeat of the trip. The University lads piled up thirty-six points to the Blue Devils' nineteen, and the next the Mercer team got a 31 to 18 revenge for their former defeat. The team rallied after these two defeats, and, with Spikes and Richardson starring, downed the Howard quint, 38 to 16. After a hard day of travel the Blue Devils dropped a game on February 11 to the University of Alabama, 45 to 25, and on the following night suffered another defeat at the hands of the Birmingham Athletic Club with a score of 35 to 32.

When the Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina came to Durham to repeat their former victory, they found a surprise awaiting them. The Trinity quint was back in form and entertained the visitors with a fast game, with Crute, Spikes and Simpson piling up the figures. With the little end of a 42 to 24 score, the Gamecocks returned to their native barnyard.

On February 19 history repeated itself, and luck went against us. The Tar Heels invaded our home court and went away with the same slight margin of victory that has characterized practically all of our recent encounters. Richardson's brilliant work was the outstanding feature of the game, and Trinity put up as good a fight as the visitors, but Crute was put out of the game during the early part of it, and in the second half the Blue Devils were not able to overcome the early lead. The final score was 23 to 20.

Second honors in the state were captured by the Trinity quint when it visited Wake Forest and defeated the Baptists by one field goal that Crute placed during the last minute of the game. This 26 to 24 victory was followed by another one of 32 to 15 over North Carolina State. The final series of the season were played with Elon, resulting in two victories for the Blue Devils, the first one 33 to 24 and the second one 34 to 19.

Out of the entire twenty-five games of the season, three more than were played during the former season, nineteen were won. The only non-collegiate defeat was at the hands of the Birmingham club at the end of a strenuous trip. Of the seventeen collegiate contests only five were lost, a slightly better average than last year, and only two of these defeats were state games. Trinity's total collegiate scoring this year was 499 points against an opponent's total of 434. Captain Spikes was the leading scorer, with 291 points to his credit. Simpson followed with 205, Bullock with 132, and Crute with 127. This season marks the departure of Spikes, Simpson and Richardson, a trio of men that have made themselves felt in every contest of the year.

Coach Taylor's "Red Devils", during this second year of their existence, went through a regular schedule of games with a big margin of victories. Of the sixteen games played ten were won, and only one was lost by a margin of more than six points. Captain Rhodes piled up the largest score. Butler and Burkheimer followed with good records, and the other men came in with consistent work to make up a well-running machine. Games won were with the Durham Junior Y, Mars Hill Academy, Greensboro High School, New Bern High School, Oak Ridge Institute, and two with Monroe High School. Games lost were: One with the Oxford American Legion and two with the Carolina Freshmen. In two games each with the North Carolina State Freshmen, Davidson Freshmen, and Durham High School the Red Devils broke even.

Baseball, 1923

By W. F. CRAVEN, JR.

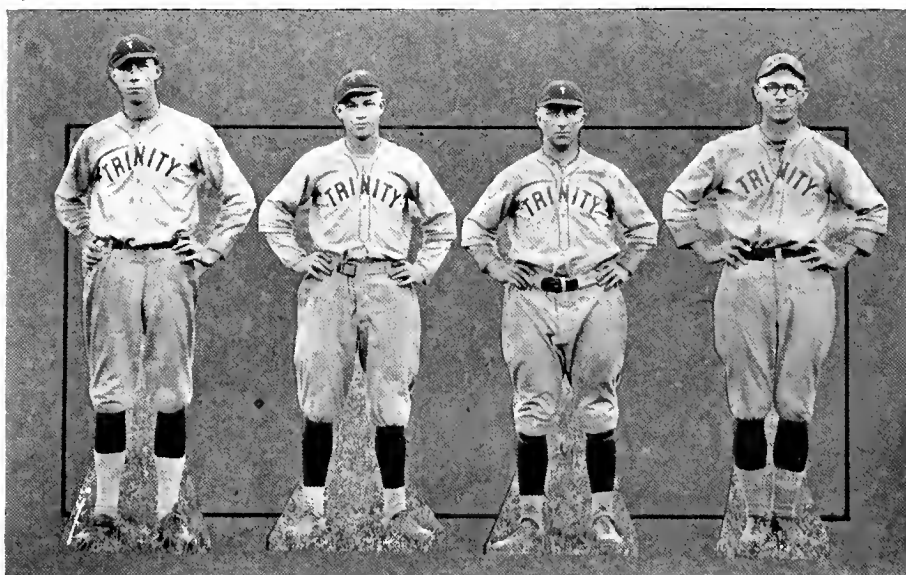

The Trinity nine came through the season of 1923 with the most enviable record of any athletic team representing Trinity in recent years, having won the collegiate baseball championship of the South with seventeen victories and but three defeats. In establishing this record the Trinity team presented a remarkable hitting and fielding combination that worked consistently behind the atom-proof pitching of Sanderson and Dempster.

The season was opened with Catawba. Trinity was victor by a 10 to 0 score, John Dempster fanning thirteen opposing batsmen. The University of New York was next taken in tow by the overwhelming count of 17 to 4. In a fast game on Easter Monday the Reading Internationals defeated Coach Steiner's proteges by the count of 8 to 5.

After the reopening of college, Trinity plunged into the intercollegiate race with real determination. Furman was the first victim to fall before the onslaught. It was a grand and glorious day for "Pee Wee" Turner, whose sensational playing just about spelled the 2 to 0 victory for Trinity.

The annual trip included games with some of the foremost colleges in the South. The first game was won by Auburn by a two-point margin. Trinity came back the next day, however, and by means of a ninth inning rally took a sudden revenge by the score of 9 to 7. The North Georgia Aggies were trounced in a game that ended 7 to 4 in Trinity's favor. Harvey Johnson won the game with the University of Georgia by losing the ball in a nearby river. The final result was 2 to 1 in favor of Trinity. Behind the air-tight pitching of Sanderson, Captain Ormand's crew completely ran away from Clemson, scoring a total of nine runs to none by Clemson. The most complete victory was over the University of South Carolina. Scoring twelve runs in the fourth inning, Trinity routed her opponents by the score of 20 to 0.

The South Carolina game completed the most successful trip ever taken by a Trinity team. Everywhere throughout the South sport writers were loud in their acclamations of praise for the Trinity team. After easily defeating Guilford, 11 to 0, everyone began preparation for the annual game with Carolina.

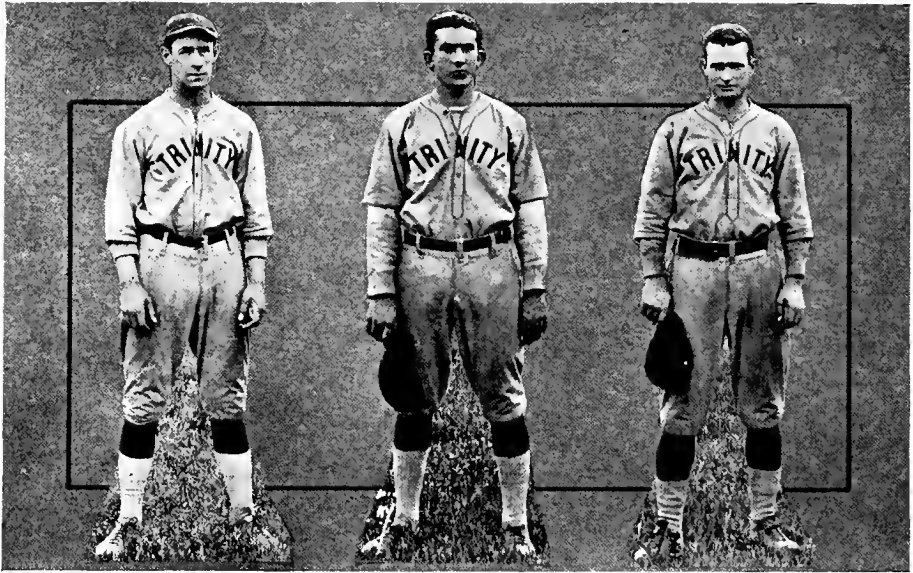

This was the most exciting game of the season, perhaps. The Trinity students were there "in toto." For four successive years Trinity had tasted defeat at the hands of Carolina. Each spring the Methodist players and supporters had launched forth feeling sure "this is the year to beat Carolina." But somehow up to last year Trinity seemed unable to make good her threats. The story of that game is still a sweet morsel for Trinity bull feasts. Bryson, Carolina's star pitcher, was driven from the box early in the game, and with the entire Trinity nine performing in stellar style, Carolina was defeated, 5 to 2.

Wake Forest proved somewhat difficult to overcome, but Everett Spikes saved the day by one of his home runs in the eighth inning. The score was 5 to 3. In a free-for-all hitting contest Elon was totally wrecked and Trinity won her tenth straight victory on the diamond by defeating Lenoir, 9 to 0. In a never-to-be-forgotten pitchers' duel Jesse Sanderson pitched a no-hit game against Davidson in the closest game of the season, which Trinity won by the count of 1 to 0. A triple by J. D. Johnson won the second game of the year from Wake Forest, 5 to 2. Everything was now in readiness for the clash with the much-tooted North Carolina State nine.

This game was so thrilling, or rather Trinity's seventh inning rally, that not even Cap Card can recall a more exciting time. Trailing for six innings, Trinity came to the bat in that inning, and after two batsmen had contributed easy outs, staged a whirlwind rally. When the dust cleared away Trinity was sitting on the top of the world with the score reading 10 to 6. Seven markers were chalked up in this inning, they being the result of nine hits, an error, and a base on balls. This was the fourteenth consecutive victory and Trinity was generally conceded the state championship.

The state championship was clinched with the second defeat handed to State in Raleigh by the count of 3 to 0. Dempster and Johnson were the stars for Trinity. Through some unaccountable way, Davidson got away with the large end of a 4 to 3 score in Gastonia, but this did not affect the state standing. The only real disappointment of the season came in the commencement game with Carolina. Trinity failed to measure up to her former accomplishments, and Carolina, being much aided by the spectacular fielding of her leftfielder, Bonner, won by the score of 5 to 3.

The Trinity nine were the undisputed champions of North Carolina and had the best claim on the championship of the South. Trinity's contentions were based on a record of seventeen college games won and only three lost. As a club, the team hit well above the .300 mark. The heavy stick work of the team is told in the 153 tallies scored by the team, while the brand of pitching by Dempster and Sanderson is told in the forty-eight runs scored by opponents.

The fleetest member of the Trinity fleet is the yacht "Resolute." A review of her history will show that she has been known, not so much for her speed as a contestant in the annual races as for the expert seamanship of some outstanding members of her crew. She has always been fortunate in having at her wheel such men as Captain Shankle of last year's crew. Great improvement was shown in the "Resolute's" accomplishments of last year over the previous years. This improvement is attributed to the endeavors of Coach Burbage, who last year undertook the remodeling of the yacht in many respects. One great trouble has been the lack of a general interest in yachting among the Trinity students, and Mr. Burbage, who is himself an experienced seaman of no mean ability, undertook first to awaken a real interest in this form of sporting. The improved showing made by his yacht speaks for his success.

The first meet was with Elon, and the "Resolute" was the victor by a comfortable margin of several paces. North Carolina State and Carolina were both victorious over the "Resolute," but the space between the winners and the losers was narrowed down to a smaller margin than ever before. On a short cruise through the waters of Virginia one meet was won and one lost, Hampden-Sidney being unable to equal the skill of Captain Shankle and his crew and the University of Richmond nosing out a few paces ahead. The annual state meet in Chapel Hill proved disastrous, Captain Shankle being the only survivor to tell the story. The "Resolute" was wrecked and submerged. It has been questioned as to the reason for Captain Shankle's failure to follow the usual custom of going down with his boat. The explanation lies in the fact that he was so intent in his endeavors to save the ship that all was lost before he ceased his work, and there being no real reason for sacrificing himself, he jumped to safety.

The prospects for a successful season this year are much better as the CHANTICLEER goes to press. Coach Burbage has to aid him, in reconstructing our yacht, such experienced seamen as Captain Pinnix, the veteran Barnhardt, Lagerstedt, Hatcher, Hargrove, Mabry, Bolich, Heffner, Allen, and many promising men from the Freshman Class. Manager John Tyler is busily engaged in working out a schedule composed of yachts manned by seamen worthy of the steel of our own men.

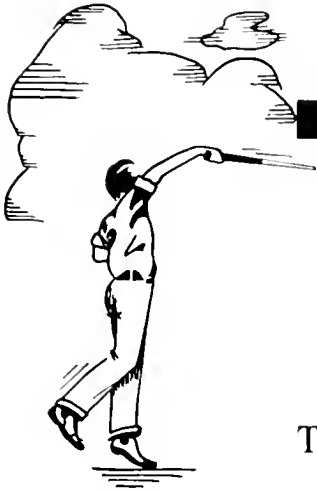

VARSIITY TRACK SQUAD

Cross-Country

The only department of the track team which has appeared on the field at the time the CHANTICLEER goes to press is the cross-country team. The appearance of this team was most remarkable, however. Clegg's Adonis-like form, draped in close-fitting flannel drawers, was a pleasing contrast to "Puppy" Hatcher's graceful foot bound in sandals of the rarest elegance. Hatcher was not always as thoughtful of preserving the remarkable foot with which nature supplied him as he should have been, however, for on every possible occasion he would kick any rock that might come within his range. Allen persistently wore full duck pants. He must have been waiting to get into good form before he arrayed himself completely. Mabry, on the other hand, was seemingly proud of his legs, but he always wore an old shirt to cover the upper portion of his body. Verily, this team made an excellent appearance. No mention has been made of the remarkable coat that Withrow used for a sweater. Ivey added color to the scene, while Nichols displayed the model stride for the company. "Bob" Holmes never appeared on the field without every hair of his wonderful Marcelle precisely in place, but Heffner concentrated all his energies on getting ahead, without giving any attention to his hair. The man who ornamented the team like the jewels in a crown of gold, however, was Captain Bolich, especially when he removed his big glasses and displayed his full countenance to view. Little need be said of the manager save that the rumor that he did not know there was a cross-country team, is believed to be false.

TENNIS

- SPENCER -

Trinity Tennis Team

By ROBERT H. JAMES

With the great stride which athletics has made at Trinity during the past few years, tennis has kept a good pace. When the tennis season began in the fall, there was much evidence of a keen interest in this sport, with only three letter men on the campus, a surprisingly large number of candidates answered the call of Coach White, and the tournament which followed to determine the personnel of the squad was warmly contested. As a result of this tournament the following men were chosen to make up the squad: Captain Johnson, Burns, Whisnant, Marr, James, Mayer, Swaringen, Bright, and Roche. Weekly tournaments were then held under the guidance and tutorage of Dr. White, and when the first meet of the year was held the team consisted of Burns, Captain Johnson, Marr, Whisnant, and James, playing in the order named.

This first meet was held at Trinity with the racketeers from Wake Forest as rivals. Although Trinity had no trouble in winning this meet, being victorious in four of the five singles matches and in both of the doubles matches, the meet was fast, warmly contested, and enjoyed by the large crowd of spectators who were present. The most interesting feature of the meet, however, was the match between Eddie Burns, a Trinity Freshman, and Agaelesto, of Wake Forest. This was Eddie's first appearance for Trinity, and he gained an enviable reputation with his variety of strokes, steadiness, and accuracy. Burns' service is his only weakness, but under Dr. White's coaching he should remedy this fault, and we predict that he will win several championships for Trinity before he gets his diploma.

The weather prohibited the team from taking a very extensive trip in the fall, and only two other colleges were met during this season. Guilford and Elon were played and Trinity won every match in both contests. Those taking this trip were: Captain Johnson, Burns, Whisnant, Marr, James, and Swaringen. Manager King accompanied the team, it being necessary that the co-eds of the visited institutions be entertained while the matches were being played.

With the coming of spring there has been a renewal of interest, and there is every reason to believe a successful season is ahead. Manager King is arranging a heavy schedule, meets with V. P. I. Carolina, North Carolina State, Davidson, Wake Forest, and Guilford being included. The season will close with the state meet in Greensboro in the early part of May. It is not necessary to say that Trinity expects to bring back her share of the laurels from this state meet.

Miscellaneous Sports

Volley Ball

LONG years ago Captain Wilbur Wade Card, a man who is loved by all sportsmen between Wake Forest and Chapel Hill, introduced into North Carolina a sport which has now gripped the state with a firm hold that time itself will never loosen. This sport was basketball. At its introduction people laughed at the game and its introducer, but such is the life of martyrs. Last year the captain introduced another game into the state collegiate circles, for which he predicts as glorious a future as has been the past of basketball. This sport is volley ball. The first team from Trinity boasted of Ikey Taylor, C. G. Scott, Bob James, Orho Bryan, Henry Norris, George Allen, and Substitute Stanton Pickens. Although the meet with Carolina was rather disastrous for the home team, nevertheless the undefeatable spirit of Trinity displayed itself when the Trinity men met the West Durham team governed by Crip West. It is a safe bet that "Cap's" prognostications were not ill-founded.

Soccer

Another sport which looks to Mr. Card as its originator at Trinity, is soccer. Whenever the captain tires of giving his classes calisthenics, he turns his students loose on the soccer field, about fifty to the team. In this way the new sport becomes an excellent way of relieving the instructor of a lot of tiresome work and the substitution is greatly appreciated by the boys. "Bill" Lander is the foremost enthusiast of soccer.

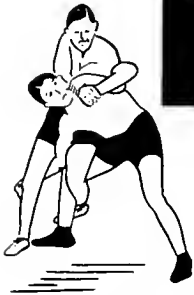

Golf

Although Mr. Duke has not yet furnished the Trinity campus with a complete golf course, nature has been kind enough to present an excellent opportunity for young golfers to practice their shots and display their fashionable golf hose to the admiring gaze of the young ladies at the same time. Tom Parker boasts of having lost eighty-three brand-new balls somewhere between Jarvis and Southgate, but it has been well worth the expense to be able to show the symmetrical and graceful curves of a well-filled checkered golf stocking while sustaining his losses. Tom Bridgers and "Bill" Anderson have even put tin cans in the ground for holes, but "Lib" Roberts is the only one who has as yet qualified for the "Hole in One" club. "Son" Clarke displays his aristocratic tendencies with his borrowed clubs quite often, while Jim Farris has long since passed into the realms of the professional. "Buddy" Ellison would make a pretty good showing if he could keep the A J H Freshmen from around his neck long enough to get a good swing. If Dr. Brown would only renew his former interest in the sport, Trinity would have a team that could meet all comers.

Wrestling, 1923-1924

By W. F. CRAVEN, JR.

And now we come to record the history of one of the most illustrious members of the Trinity Fleet, the good tug "Unconquerable." A glance at its record of service would hardly lead one to believe that it was the youngest member of the fleet, and yet it is. Just year before last it was decided by the Board of Directors of the Trinity Line that foreign ships were not being piloted into the Trinity harbor, Victory, as frequently and as efficiently as they would be by the aid of a tug. One, Bailey by name, volunteered to oversee the construction of such a tug as would meet the needs of the fleet, and he succeeded so well that the line is now the proud possessor of a tug that is unsurpassed by any in its ability to fulfill the duty to which it is assigned.

The first year of its service the "Unconquerable" proved to be the best in the state, and last year was admitted to be the second best in the South Atlantic States. This year, however, with the seasoning of her crew, most of whom had seen service for the two previous years, she was undoubtedly unsurpassed in the entire South, and has an undisputed claim to the Southern championship.

The members of her crew need no introduction to any Trinity reader, but since this is a history, it will be well to record their names. The worthy captain of the "Unconquerable" was Archie Daniels. Other members of the crew were Midgett, Hardaway, May, Mathewson, McLellan, Warlick, Umberger, and Yearby. The work of all these men was so good that it would be hard to pick out the star performers, although Midgett, Hardaway, Mathewson, and Captain Daniels were the most outstanding.

The first to be towed into the harbor was the ship Carolina. The only difficulty encountered was keeping the Carolina crew on board the deck and at their posts of duty. They seemed to realize that the ship was going into the harbor in spite of their efforts, but each individual, with one exception, continually attempted to show that they were going to have nothing to do with it. Washington and Lee was next, and as this was the last ship to venture around the Trinity waters, Captain Daniels was forced to cruise through the southern seas in quest of other ships. It may seem strange that a tug should make such an extensive trip away from its harbor, but the unusual is the general course followed by the Trinity Line. It will suffice to say that no less than five ships were successfully towed in. The greatest difficulty was found in persuading the good ship Davidson that the Trinity harbor was the proper place for it to rest until next season. The success of the season lies in the fact that there was not a ship that the "Unconquerable" set out to bring into the Trinity harbor that does not now peacefully rest upon its placid water.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

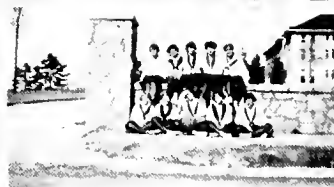

During the past two years, under the direction of Miss Elva Christenbury, women's athletics at Trinity has developed rapidly. Due to the fact that inter-collegiate athletics among the women does not exist, the activities are confined to inter-class tournaments, to the gymnasium, and to riding, hiking, and swimming clubs. Especial interest has been taken during the past year in the Riding Club, and almost every afternoon young equestriennes have performed to the approval of admiring spectators.

Confessions

HIS volume of the CHANTICLEER came out in spite of all the editor could do to prevent it. Had it not been for Henry Call Sprinkle, Dr. W. T. Laprade, Miss Margaret Frank, A. W. Craven, and a few other undefeatables who would not let the book fail, it would not have now been in your hands. Too much cannot be said of those persons mentioned above, and especially of H. C. Sprinkle.

Nominally, the CHANTICLEER is always the publication of the Senior Class, but never before has it been actually the product of the class until this year. When the dark hours came, and the possibilities of the book very small, every member of the class responded to the situation as nobly as ever errant knight answered the call of his lady love in the clutches of evildoers. Instead of spending their time finding fault with the officers of the CHANTICLEER, they offered their services for any capacity in which they might be needed. Their conduct was noble.

Credit is also due to Stanton Pickens, W. Hall Smith, and C. G. Knox for valuable aid in the collection of photographic material, to Tatsuo Momosaki for excellent co-operation in the matter of taking snap shots, to Ralph Feagin for a number of cartoons submitted to the art department. This book, poor as it may be, is the result of co-operative effort of a great many more people than those who appear upon the staff.

Thirty-Second Annual Intersociety Debate

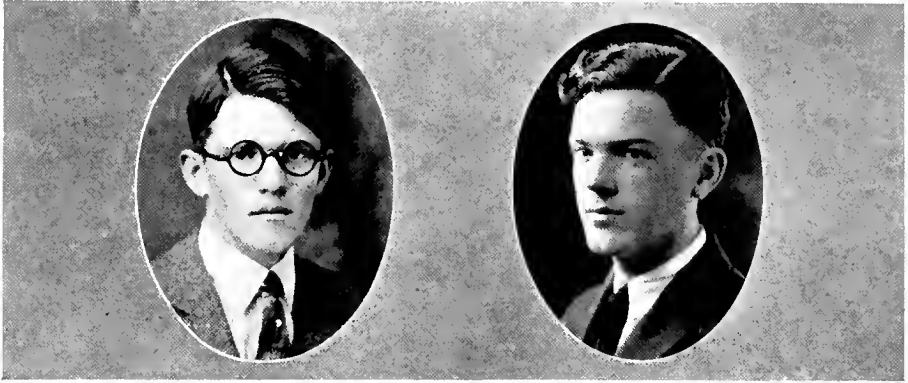

JANUARY 10, 1924

QUERY: Resolved, That the power of the United States Supreme Court should be limited.

Result: Three votes for the affirmative, Hesperia.

Resume of Intersociety Debates

During the thirty-two years since the first debate between the Hesperian and Columbian Literary Societies, seventeen debates have been won by Hesperia, and fifteen have been won by Columbia. Previous to the 1924 debate, the record stood sixteen to fifteen, and unusual interest was centered about the outcome of the last contest. Although Hesperia stands two debates in the lead, Columbia won four successive debates between 1920 and 1924, a record which had not been equaled before.

Trinity and Swarthmore Open-Forum Debate

MARCH 29, 1924

QUERY: Resolved, That the power of the Supreme Court of the United States should be limited.

W. F. Twaddell appeared on the affirmative, with R. M. Purdue, of Swarthmore. W. L. Clegg appeared on the negative, with J. F. Price, of Swarthmore. The result of the vote was forty-four for the affirmative and one hundred and eighty-five for the negative.

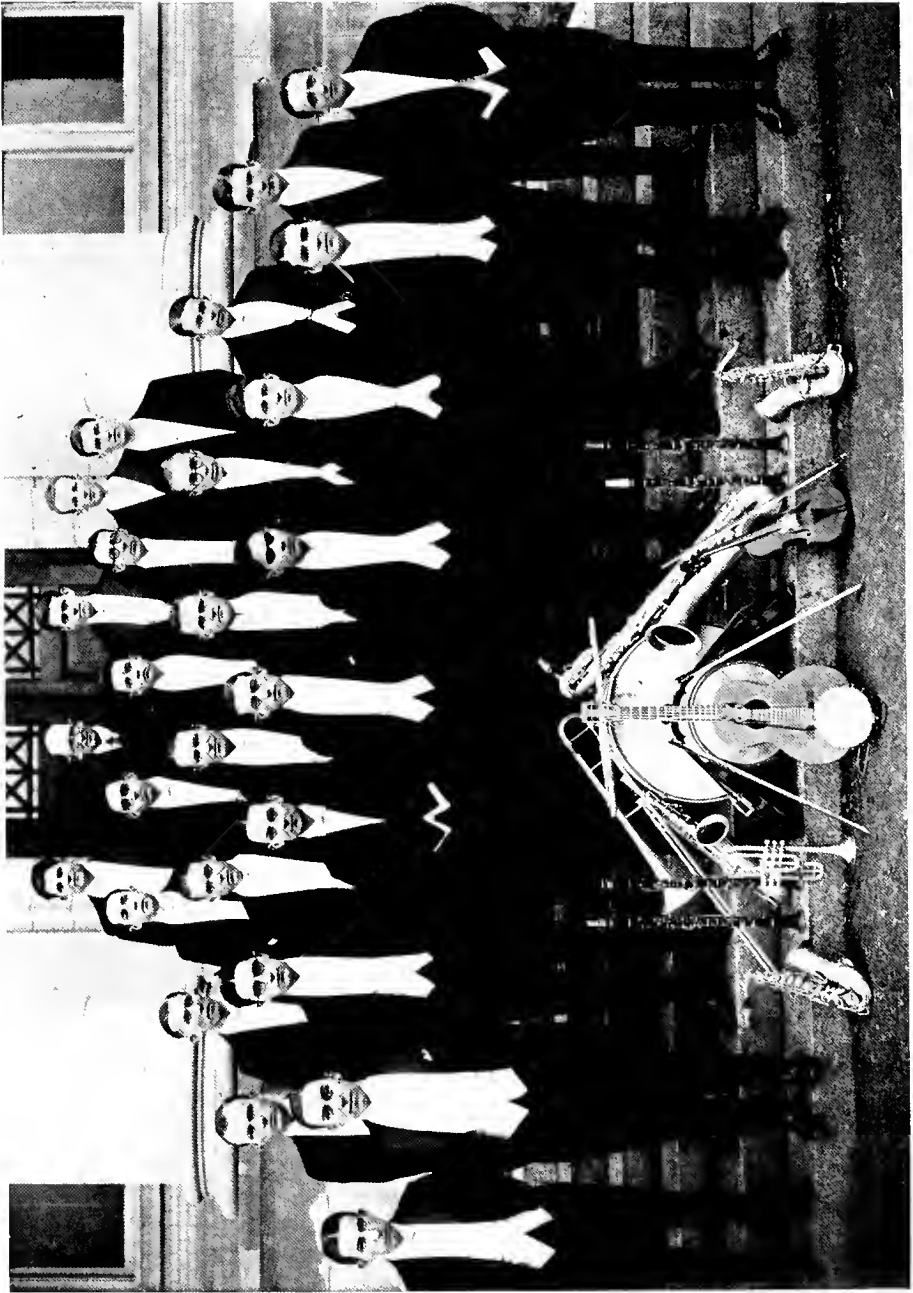

Time of speeches: Fifteen minutes each.

Emory and Davidson Preliminary

At the time the CHANTICLEER goes to press, the six men who are to debate on the Trinity-Emory and the Trinity-Davidson debate teams for 1924 have been chosen, but the men have not been appointed to the separate teams. Their names are W. R. Brown, W. S. Blakeney, E. B. Fisher, L. B. Hollowell, W. F. Craven, Jr., and J. T. Lanning.

THE GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Girls' Glee Club

THE co-ordination at Trinity College of a college for men and a college for women is rapidly becoming a reality. No evidence of the development of the woman's branch of the college is more striking than the development of individual activities among the students of the west side of the campus, and the Woman's Glee Club is one of the foremost of these activities.

A few names of the girls who have made the Glee Club a possibility this year would include Ethel Merritt, a young lady whose qualities couple an excellent voice and ability on the guitar with the power to make an organization go; Mary King Ellison, the popular president of the club; Iva Jennett and Elizabeth Aldridge, who have probably the best voices in the entire group; Elizabeth Kramer, an excellent performer on the mandolin; Kittie Stubbs, the power behind the throne, and Imogene Barrett, one of the best and most attractive pianists who ever played "Trinity." No womanly accomplishment ranks any higher in the estimation of man than music, and many sins can be atoned for by the rendition of a beautiful vocal or instrumental selection.

The Second Year of Student Government

The student council for 1923-1924 was a fortunate mixture of men who were broad-minded about affairs concerning which they had no personal experience on which to rely and men who had lived in sufficiently close touch with other men to understand at first-hand information their temptations and weaknesses. Lest these remarks be construed to indicate that offenders against the honor code at Trinity were treated lightly, such was not the case in the least, but the prudish and narrow point of view which is sometimes held by members of the student council was conspicuously absent.

The problem of developing traditions in a school is the hardest, yet the most important element in the process of gaining an efficient and respected honor system, and this has been the item upon which the council has concentrated largely this year. To say that they have succeeded would be to say that they have accomplished the impossible, for traditions are not built in a day, but the foundations have been laid that give evidence of lasting until the walls of the college shall crumble in the dust on the eve of eternity. In the kindred field of sportsmanship, however, much needs to be done, and never should the Trinity students be satisfied until the fame of her spirit has extended from sea to sea.

RULES GOVERNING BIDDING AND INITIATING FRESHMEN

The Fraternity Pan-Hellenic rule governing the pledging of Freshmen sets the date for bids to be sent out the second Wednesday after the first day of February in each year. Freshmen must have passed twelve hours of work before they may be pledged. Pledges may be immediately initiated.

The Sorority Pan-Hellenic rule governing the pledging of Freshmen sets the date for the bids to be sent out as four weeks after the opening of school. For the first two weeks no girl is allowed to wear her pin. If a sorority desires to bid a girl, it must present her name to the secretary of Pan-Hellenic one week previous to the presentation of the bid. The secretary of Pan-Hellenic notifies the other sororities that the girl whose name has been presented is being rushed by the sorority which presented her name. For the first two weeks after school opens there is legally absolutely no rushing.

The Conqueror

From out the starry portals of the night,
Amid those whirling, burning, dashing orbs
That pull and strain to keep each other right—
Where hectic strife the back of day absorbs—
The rising sun emerges, clad in gold,
In red and crimson, purple, azure, white,
And calmness rules above the quiet fold,
And peaceful day supplants the turbid night.

The beacon light of knowledge will appear
Unnoticed from the vale of ignorance
Until its piercing rays shall banish fear,
And hate and strife are withered in its glance.

The Panorama

*Each care-planned page unfolds to you, as in a panorama,
Our college life in acts of four—a veritable drama.
Amusements you will find galore, of interest to each reader;
The students play each actor's role, the campus is the theater,
The shrewd, sagacious faculty, with wisdom fit for kings,
Direct our able company—triumphant in all things.
The repertoire, as given here, was planned with greatest prudence,
And doth comprise activities of all our worthy students.*

To the Statue

By ELIZABETH NEWCOMB

Oh! This is the tale of the Statue so great
Of Washington Duke, who in honorable state,
In the midst of our campus, sits regal and grand,
And my! what a knowledge if he could withstand.

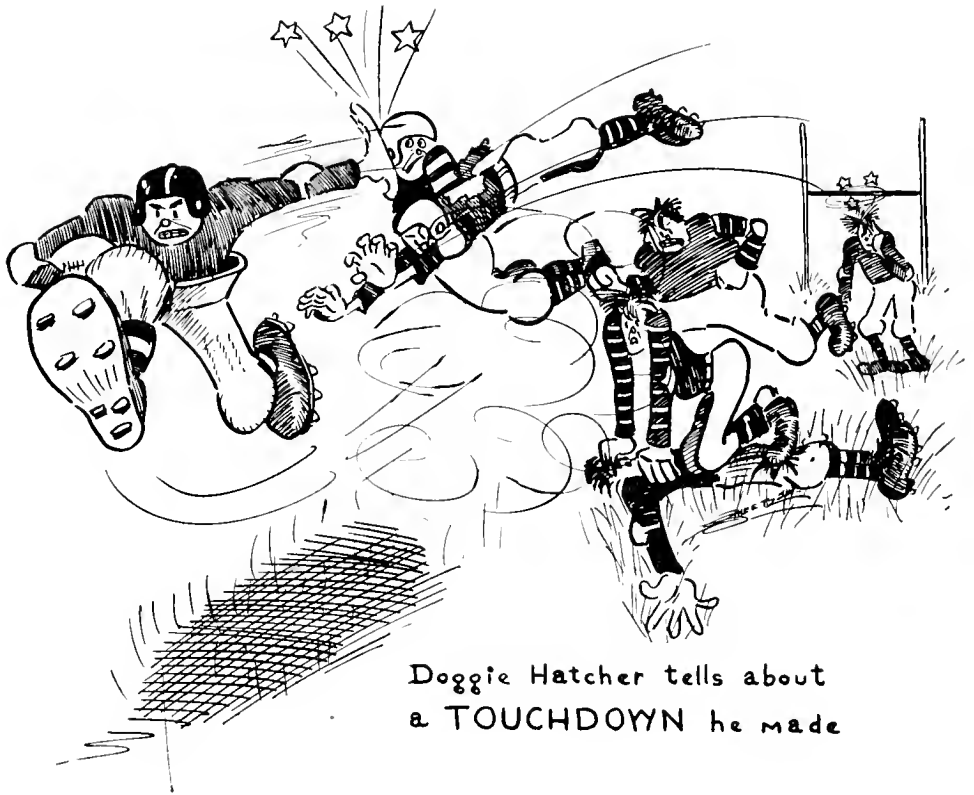

It must be his wisdom, or maybe his grace,
That pulls many students to look on his face,
And gather around him and gossip and play,
Forgetting the lessons they learned for the day.

Drawn as by magnet to gather around,
The law students come with their thoughts so profound,
And air their convictions and wrinkle their brows,
Discussing the average knowledge of cows.

In days long ago, so the story is told,
A daring young lady grew wicked and bold,
She climbed up the statue and sat on the lap,
And stroked the cold beard of this honorable chap.

Not only do friends often gather around,
But lovers seem also to find on this mound
A place so delightful, a place so sublime,
That words become useless, and looks 'come divine.

So here's to the statue, our magnet so grand,
May we by our contact contrive to command
A bit of the knowledge, the kindness, the grace,
The goodness and virtue that shines on that face.

Doggie Hatcher tells about a TOUCHDOWN he made

Every Dog Has His Day

Once to every dog or mongrel,
Whether cur or highest breed,
Comes a day when every action
Turns into a princely deed.

Once to every football player
Comes the opportunity
To display his mighty valour—
Make his boasts reality.

So it was with Doggie Hatcher,
As with every pup or hound.
He espied a Canine Heaven
When he made his great touchdown.

"SAVE THE SURFACE AND YOU SAVE ALL"

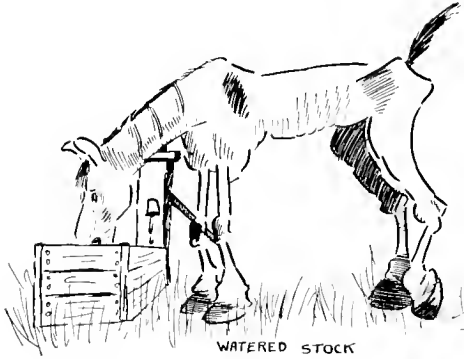

Chanticleer Analyzed

The general opinion among the students is that this annual got its name from the famous old bird which has ever crowed over the victories of Trinity and proclaimed her renown from the housetops or parade ground. Such is not the case. The name is a combination of letters which have great significance, as the initials of professors of the school who have been so well known to the students of Trinity.

The acrostic which originally gave rise to the name is as follows:

C is for Carroll, whose classes are dry;
H is for Holton, who's baldheaded nigh;
A is for Aldridge, who chews the old weed;
N is for Ni, who a comb is in need;
T is for Tubby, whose clothes look a sight;
I is for Ivey, both Cranford and White;
C is for Cotton, the king of the lot;
L is for Lap, who can laugh like a sot;
E is for Edwards, whose car was a joke;
E is for Everett, who never yet spoke;
R is for Rabbit, who slumbers in French;
The meaning of Chanticleer now is a cinch.

DEAR OLD SONGS OF TR²

Them Days Is Gone Forever

Whenever Prexy calls us in
 To have a social chat
 He offers us a cigarette
 And takes our coat and hat,
 And never rocks nor pipes a tune,
 Nor wears a red cravat.
 THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER.

We cut our classes every day,
 And when it's chapel time
 We find the Owl a pleasant place
 To spend a borrowed dime.
 We never get a lesson up,
 But live a life sublime.
 THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER.

APPLIED SCIENCE

We go a shacking every night
 To see the maidens fair,
 They greet us with a smile and kiss
 And most delightful air;
 There's not a place upon the earth
 We'd rather go than there.
 THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER.

Oh! never does the pressing man
 Or shoe repairing guy
 Or laundry man or pennant man
 Or anybody try
 To sell us what we do not want
 Or even ask us why.
 THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER.

The Chronic-III can always find
 The best of news to print,
 And when a scandal must be stopped,
 It always takes the hint;
 Its stories never do contain
 The very slightest tint.
 THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER.

And Ye Olde Idiot never says
 A thing about himself.
 He's modest and retiring as
 A fairy or an elf,
 And no one in the school would like
 To put him on the shelf.
 THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER.

A FEW REASONS FOR THE OUTSTANDING POPULARITY OF

BRUNSWICK RECORDS

When playing a Brunswick Record, one will notice that there is a clarity, distinctness, and depth of musical quality in every interpretation, that is only slightly touched by other Phonograph Records.

Because of Brunswick Advanced Recording Methods, the world-acclaimed artists of the New Hall of Fame record for Brunswick exclusively.

For this same reason, America's foremost dance orchestras and popular vocal artists confine their art to Brunswick.

All in all, the music loving public invariably turns to Brunswick for the newest and best recordings of the great artists and orchestras of today.

Brunswick Records may be played on any phonograph, but achieve their highest musical appeal when played on a Brunswick.
